The Public Left Out
Fish-Tailed Ladies
Lenin's Cancer
Encouraging Fires

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

In the coal strike discussion you hear what miners want, what mine owners want, nothing about what the public ought to have. Anthracite coal on the average costs at least $4 a ton more than it ought to cost.

Railroads are getting the high freight rates they wanted. The mine owners say they really can discuss nothing, therefore the hundred thousand miners must walk out. Nobody even mentions the poor public, and it doesn't show the faintest capacity for protecting itself, simply sits and wonders what is going to happen, like a sheep in the stockyards.

MacMonnies, really an artist, has made a statue of "Civic Virtue" for New York's City Hall Park. The Mayor doesn't like it; suffrage ladies protest against it — because MacMonnies represents civic virtue as a muscular young gentleman standing on the bodies of two ladies, presumably representing civic vice. Civic vice has a woman's body fastened to the tail of a fish, a sort of maritime Lilith.

The trouble with the statue is not the fish-tailed ladies. Ever since the days of Eve man has made a woman responsible for his downfall. On the other hand, the devil is shown as a gentleman, so it is about even.

The trouble with MacMonnies' statue is in the masculine figure of civic virtue, an overgrown boy with short legs, the muscles of a coal heaver, a weak face, a flabby mouth that could never reform anything.

It is a youth that would be chosen for the rush line in a football game on account of his muscles, then thrown out for lack of energy. If MacMonnies had made a statue of himself, thin, eager, nervous, instead of choosing a youthful coal heaver for the model, he would have done better.

A German specialist has been sent to Russia to look after Lenin, said to have cancer. That cancer, a vicious parasite, eating the tissues of the ruler of Russia, may mean more to the destiny of that gigantic nation than the other cancer, starvation, now eating up the people.

What would happen if Lenin died and Trotzky were left in charge of the Russian army, without Lenin as a check on his ardent nature? The picture resulting would not look pretty in history probably.

The thing that keeps Russia from any 100 per cent. movement in the wrong or the right direction is, as in India, the many separate units of population, independent of each other.

In Russia 200,000 villages. In India more than 600,000 villages exist, each complete in itself, knowing and caring little about the outside world.

In Russia more than forty, in India more than a hundred languages and dialects keep the people apart and prevent united action.

To break down the Bolshevik government, for which unintelligent European civilization is praying, would result in anarchy over the vast spaces of Russia, with some one Red leader holding a big army together and living on the land, as Attila lived in his marauding through Europe.

Losses by fire in the United States last year amounted to $500,000,000. Three-quarters of the loss could have been prevented by ordinary care. Fire insurance companies, as has been proved by Samuel Untermyer, charge exorbitant fees for insurance. They are not especially interested in preventing fires—they encourage business.

Owners insured are not particularly interested in fire prevention, and only the owners can prevent the fires.

The public could protect itself by investigating and regulating insurance, including automobile thefts, which encourage crime and carelessness.

It is all very well to say that owners must be protected and that insurance protects them. The public also should be protected.

APPOINTS ALLEN FOR 3 YEARS

Governor Defends Course of Bank Commissioner in Closing Trust Companies

Governor Channing H. Cox today reappointed Bank Commissioner Joseph C. Allen for a three-year-term and in one of the most vigorous statements ever issued by a Governor of the Commonwealth called upon the Legislature to make a sweeping investigation of the conditions that caused the wrecking of the five closed Boston trust companies.

Governor Cox, in his statement, said:

"The term of Bank Commissioner Allen has expired and today I am reappointing him. In my judgment he has met a most difficult situation with courage and honesty.

"The officials of some of the closed institutions have attacked Mr. Allen without mercy. In some cases it has seemed to me, that they have tried to escape their depositors' vengeance for their own wrong-doing and incompetency by making these vituperative assaults upon the commissioner.

"Some officials of the closed banks have recently said that they would like to have the Legislature investigate the closing of their institutions. The proposition appeals to me.

"The Legislature represents all the people.

"I should welcome an investigation by the Legislature or any other fair tribunal. It would be helpful if the people were in-

LINE UP ON TREATY FIGHT

Senate Leaders Prepare to Rush It Through Without Reservations Tomorrow

Washington, March 23.—Democratic Senators who oppose the Four-Power Treaty offered today to vote for ratification of the pact if it were extended to all nations having, or claiming to have, interests in the Pacific and the Far East.

The offer was tendered to Senator Underwood, the Democratic leader, by Senator Harrison and Robinson, and was transmitted to Senator Lodge.

By Associated Press.

Washington, March 23.—What was expected to be the final battle over the four-power Pacific treaty began in the Senate today, with the administration leaders holding their lines intact against the onslaughts of the irreconcilables and predicting that ratification would be voted tomorrow with no reservation except that approved by the Foreign Relations Committee and accepted by President Harding.

Enough votes were pledged, leaders said, to reject all other proposed reservations and amendments and to insure the necessary two-thirds for final ratification.

The ratification vote is to be taken at the outset of tomorrow's session under the unanimous consent agreement which limited today to one hour for each Senator and which stipulated that discussion should end entirely with today's adjournment.

NO ALLIANCE.

Another series of prepared addresses were delivered at the outset of the session, which began an hour earlier than usual to give an opportunity to all those who desired to speak. It was the expectation of the leaders that votes on several of the pending reservations would be taken before night.

The debate was opened by Senator Colt of Rhode Island, who favored ratification with the committee "No Alliance" reservation which was framed by Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, after a conference with President Harding.

Senator Colt said that in his opinion the treaty without the reservation would impose a "moral obligation" to use force.

Replying to a criticism that the treaty would involve the United States in Far Eastern questions, the Rhode Island Senator argued that the quarrels of other nations in the Pacific "inevitably involve the peace and security of the United States," whether there is a treaty or not.

MORAL OBLIGATION.

The safer way, he said, would be to take a position where it would be possible to aid in amicable adjustment of such questions.

"There is clearly no contractual obligation to go to war," he said, "but I cannot resist the conclusion that there is an implied moral obligation to use armed force if it should be found that such force is necessary to meet the exigencies of the particular situation.

"I believe the Brandegee resolution should be adopted, thus making it perfectly certain that the treaty in

INQUEST IN DEATH OF BEAUTY

District Attorney Acts Independently of Magrath in Clark Case

District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien today formally ordered an inquest into the deaths of Pauline Virginia Clark, Back Bay "college widow," and Otto Haldor Larsen, Norwegian student at Tech.

This is the first time within the memory of oldtimers at Boston Police Headquarters that a district attorney of this county has ordered an inquest independently of the medical examiner. The custom has been to permit the medical examiner to hold his own inquest.

Inspector James Dennessey, homicide expert of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, started work on the case today, immediately following the district attorney's action.

District Attorney O'Brien formally ordered Medical Examiner Magrath to turn over to Dennessey all papers, including his official report.

Dennissey will question witnesses, including members of the "death party" at Miss Clark's Newbury street apartment who were present when she took cyanide. He will gather all possible evidence in preparation for the inquest.

Chief Justice Bolster will set the date of the inquest. It is expected that this will be held next Thursday, because it has been customary to hold inquests on Thursdays.

O'BRIEN'S MURDER THEORY.

The Suffolk Grand Jury convened, but up to a late hour there was no indication that the double death tragedy would be brought before it today. Nor was there any indication that it would be called upon to consider any evidence of immoral conditions claimed to be prevalent in various sections.

District Attorney O'Brien said he had not summoned Dr. Magrath or anyone else before the Grand Jury in connection with the Clark-Larsen deaths, or in connection with alleged immoral conditions, but added: "You can't tell what might come up."

O'Brien differs with Medical Examiner Magrath in regard to the Clark-Larsen case. The medical examiner has maintained that both were cases of suicide.

"If Larsen provided the poison, as he stated in his letter of confession, then he was a murderer in the eyes of the law," declared the district attorney.

It developed today that extensive as was Miss Clark's acquaintance with men of social prominence, it was hardly less extensive than Larsen's knowledge of Boston women. The combined knowledge of the moral slips of the members of exclusive Boston families would have wrecked the Blue Book, it is said.

SCREENED HIS DUPLICITY

Disclosures today proved that Otto Larsen was not the drab and proper "bookworm" that earlier reports made him out to be. They showed him to have been of dual character, and to have screened his duplicity with rare cunning during the five years that he has been pursuing his studies in this city.

In spite of the fact that he succeeded in keeping secret from his classmates and friends at the Northeast that he had been quite a man of the world and had many affairs of the heart.

How Larsen managed to conceal

'GAG RULE' ADOPTED WITH 100 MARGIN

Galleries Crowded to Hear Debate on Measure for War Veterans

Washington, March 23.—After a brief fight, the House today adopted the special "gag rule" which prohibits amendments being offered to the bonus bill from the floor. The vote was 221 to 126.

Immediately thereafter started a flow of debate. The galleries were jammed with spectators, among whom women predominated.

The House met an hour early to get in four hour of debate before passing the measure. The principal exponents were Republican Leaders Mondell, Fordney, Campbell, Fess and Longworth, who have nursed the bill through the Ways and Means Committee, and for the Democrats Garrett of Tennessee, Cantril of Kentucky and Free of North Carolina.

Political talk was flung back and forth across the chamber from the moment the discussion started. The Republicans accused the Democrats of being "obstructionists" and the Democrats accused the Republicans of dragging the bill through out of fear of consequences at the polls next November.

Early in the debate it was evident that the bill would receive more than the two-thirds majority necessary to its passage under the rules. A careful survey of the House indicated that no more than sixty or seventy votes would be cast against it.

SOLDIERS' BONUS BILL UP FOR VOTE TODAY IN THE HOUSE

SENATE IS FOR SALES TAX

sales tax advocates in Congress declared.

A sufficient number of Senators are prepared to support the demand of President Harding for a cash bonus plan with the sales tax attached to completely overturn the Republican House leaders' scheme for a certificate bonus proposition, leaders of the sales tax group stated.

Attention was called to the fact that the sales tax as the basis of the tax system was defeated by only eight votes last year in the Senate, with President Harding remaining passive.

The President's advocacy of the sales tax has swung a dozen Senators into line for that levy who voted against it last year.

Sales tax advocates were confident that the Senate would adopt the sales tax and rewrite the bonus bill into the only form in which the President has said it would be acceptable to him. The cash bonus feature will be restored and the sales tax adopted to finance it, according to leaders in both Houses who have made a careful survey of the situation.

Sharp Debate on the Bonus Bill

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 23.—Some members were given only one minute, others two minutes, others three in the debate on the bonus bill, but by unanimous consent all had leave to extend their remarks in the Congressional Record.

Urging adoption of the resolution, Representative Ness, Republican, of Ohio, said that two years ago he voted against the soldiers' bonus bill because it did not provide for an equitable distribution and would have entailed too heavy a drain on the treasury at that time. He announced he would vote "without hesitation" for the pending bill, however, because the cash provision had been omitted and benefits arranged so there would not be too heavy a burden placed on the treasury for three years.

Representative Pou of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the Rules Committee, pleaded that the United States place itself at the head of the list of the allied nations which have paid adjusted compensation to their World War veterans.

"This is the day that will scatter the bones of many statesmen over the republic," declared Representative Garrett in opening his address in opposition to the resolution.

Asserting that the resolution should be voted down, Mr. Garrett declared there would be four hours' debate "without opportunity to cross an 'i' or dot a 't.' An outburst of laughter from the Republican side greeted this mistake in letters.

"Even that would improve the bill," retorted the Democratic leader.

The members of the board hereby tender their resignation to the State Board of Labor.

MRS. JOHNSON AMAZED AT VERDICT

Widow of Slain Man Expected Cunningham Jury Would Report Manslaughter

Mrs. John Johnson, wife of the man who was shot and killed by Calch Cunningham January 5, 1921, is amazed at the verdict rendered by the Norfolk County jury in setting her husband's slayer free.

"If that man can go free," said she today, "anybody can go free. There is no law in this country, except for the rich."

Mrs. Johnson was found in a modest, clean tenement in a little house in Quincy, where she and relatives [illegible] here to West Quincy. She characterized the verdict as unjust and said that while she did not believe the jury would find Cunningham guilty in the first degree, she did think they would bring in a verdict of manslaughter.

NO OFFER OF AID.

She was asked whether there has been any offer of provision for herself and her two children, Esther, thirteen, and Mildred, two and one-half years old, on the part of the Cunningham family, and she said nothing had ever been said to her on that score. She stated that Mrs. Cunningham had visited her yesterday and told her she was in receipt of a letter from Belfast, Me., intended for both women.

"I don't know what is in that letter," said she, "or what it is all about."

"I can't go to work," she continued, "because I have to take care of little Mildred. My other daughter Esther, goes to school."

Mildred, the baby, was playing about the room with a doll. She is a fair-haired tot just able to run about.

"My husband would do anything to avoid trouble," said Mrs. Johnson. "He was a home-loving family man and would always avoid places where there was trouble. I know he was not on Mr. Cunningham's land when he was shot, although his body was found there.

"They can say that Mr. Cunningham would miss his pine trees and his daisies and his flowers, but how about me and my two children? There is never a thought about what is going to become of us."

"GOT OFF EASY."

"I didn't think he (Cunningham) would get off so easy. If he didn't intend to shoot my husband, why did he watch him from the bungalow, and why did he go get his gun? How could my husband, with his stomach all shot out of him, walk a considerable distance and lie down and put his cap under his head as if to go to sleep, with the rain pouring down on his face?"

Mrs. Johnson said she saw a reference in a newspaper to the effect that the Cunningham family intended to provide for herself and her two children, "But that is all I have heard about it so far," said she. "When Mrs. Cunningham came here to visit me yesterday she never said anything about assistance.

"It was the first time she has been to see me since my husband was shot. I am doing the best I can to pay rent and support myself and children on ten dollars a week that comes from a fund which was started by the Mayor of Quincy. I hope they do assist me. It will help, of course, but it will not bring my husband back."

JURY CHARGED IN WARNER SUIT

Throng in Court at Taunton When Case Against Fuller Is Ended

Taunton, March 23.—Judge Nelson P. Brown charged the jury in the $100,000 Fuller-Warner slander suit before a crowded court room late today.

John L. Hall of Boston, attorney for Joseph E. Warner, former Speaker of the House, who is suing Lieutenant-Governor Alvan T. Fuller for slander alleged to have been made during the campaign of 1920, asked the jury to return a verdict for the full amount asked by the plaintiff.

Judge Brown told the jury that if they could find any language which might be construed as "slanderous" by any reasonable man that the former speaker had sustained the burden of proof.

Hundreds of men and women, with a majority of the latter, jammed the Bristol County Superior Court today intent upon hearing the closing arguments.

So dense was the crowd and so determined the women to force their way into the courtroom when the door was opened that Sheriff Isaac Willett was compelled to call on the Taunton police to help handle the throng.

John L. Hall, attorney for Warner, resumed his closing argument.

Speaking of the charges made by Fuller that Warner was the legal partner of Attorney Harold P. Hathaway of this city, Hall declared that of nearly 1,000 cases entered from the Hathaway law office in ten years only six of them bore the name of Warner, and but one of them with his consent.

Hall declared that Fuller had "realized the need for eliminating Warner from the Lieutenant-Governorship early in 1920," and he had "resorted to the methods employed in selling automobiles to sell himself to the Massachusetts public."

"If you find that these charges against Warner were made by Fuller in malice you jurors will be bound to return heavier damages," said the attorney.

DEATH THREAT TO CLARK HEAD TRACED

Worcester, March 23.—United States Secret Service agents are at Clark College today in an effort to trace the writer of a letter threatening the life of Dr. Jacob W. W. Atwood. The letter bears a Boston postmark.

Dr. Atwood said: "I have received such a letter. Its wording makes its misinterpretation. It conveys a threat against my life. But such a threat is not disturbing. A person who will write such a letter is usually a coward."

Dr. Atwood refused to permit the publication of the letter. The incident is an outcome of the Scott hearing controversy, when the professor's lecture was hailed by Dr. Atwood.

"RING" OF JURY FIXERS FOUND IN CHICAGO

Chicago, March 23.—Existence of an organized "ring" of jury fixers is declared to have been revealed by evidence in the hands of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe today.

A slush fund of $5,000 was raised to bribe Quesse trial jurors.

Theodore Leith, a member of the Quesse jury, has been indicted for perjury.

GIRL IN RICKARD CASE ADMITS CRIMES

against Rickard, was under cross-examination. Nellie testified that on the night of July 16, 1921, about a month before the girls said they first met Rickard, Sarah, herself and a fourteen-year-old boy known to both as "Sonny" had gone to Coney Island together.

During the evening Sarah and "Sonny" disappeared and Nellie had to go home alone. The next day, Nellie testified, Sarah admitted she and "Sonny" had behaved improperly.

Sarah testified yesterday that her alleged experiences with Rickard were the first time any such thing had happened.

PICKED UP TOGETHER.

Nellie admitted that she and Sarah had been picked up together by a truant officer in Brooklyn on a date six months before the girls first said they had become acquainted.

Nellie said she usually went to Sarah's house to get her friend before they went to Madison Square Garden to see Rickard. This was contradictory to Sarah's testimony on the stand yesterday. Nellie said she knew a sailor at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, having met him at a shooting gallery. They went to the theatre in New York several times, she said.

As admissions were drawn from the juvenile witness, she grew defiant in contrast with her silliness when under direct examination.

While under direct examination with astonishing facility she recited names, dates and even the hour of the day when certain things had happened.

WILL CLAIM ALIBI.

After two hours on the stand, Nellie began to grow nervous, so she was excused and the chief complaining witness, Sarah Schoenfeld was recalled.

Sarah admitted that "Sonny" had attempted to attack her at Coney Island. She was excused and Nellie again called.

The first intimation that Rickard's defence will be an alibi was given by his lawyer, Max D. Steuer. While she was testifying Nellie said she had met him met Rickard at Madison Square Garden at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of Nov. 12, 1921, the date named in the indictment.

"Are you sure you did not see Rickard at the Polo Grounds?" asked Steuer, indicating that Rickard would contend he was at the Polo Grounds at the time in question.

ADMITTED CRIMES.

Nellie previously had told a sensational story of her career of crime.

Under cross-examination, the little girl admitted that she had forged checks, broken into a house and had often given a fictitious name when picked up by police or agents of children's societies.

volves no commitment by the United States to the use of armed force."

Washington, March 25 (By International News Service).—President Harding was charged with "lobbying" for the four power treaty, by Senator Caraway of Arkansas during debate in the Senate today.

Caraway said he presumed the President was "trading votes in order to insure ratification of the treaty."

The "lobbying," Caraway said, was being done at the White House where the President was "calling Senators every night."

"The President, who announced he would not lobby for the treaty and would not trade votes for it has now scrapped that declaration and is sending for Senators nightly," Caraway declared.

Caraway said the "President is driven by necessity" to calling Senators to the White House.

"I do not know what arguments the President makes, but I do know that whatever inducements he can, he brings to bear upon the Senators called to the White House to get their votes for ratification."

NEW ENGLAND TO HAVE DRY SUPERVISOR

The commissioner made public the appointment of division chiefs in seventeen other federal prohibition enforcement territories.

"It is expected," Mr. Haynes said, "these chiefs will have entered upon their new assignments by the first of April, at which time the entire force of general prohibition agents will be allotted to the divisional chiefs under whom they will function.

"These divisional chiefs have been selected from the rank and file of the general agents' force, wholly on the basis of their experience, fitness and record in the government service. All have been tried and tested and have been found pronounced men of honesty, integrity and dependability.

"In most instances they have been assigned territory other than their native sections, and it will be the policy of the department to shift the various squads and divisional chiefs as to their territorial assignments."

James P. Roberts, supervising field agent at Boston, said today that the appointment of Overpeck meant that Overpeck will head the flying squadron on interstate work through New England.

Another prohibition official interpreted the appointment of Overpeck to mean a speeding up of the cases that were formerly sent to Washington for decision by Commissioner Haynes.

"Overpeck will rank over all prohibition officials in New England," this official said. "Hitherto all supervision the enforcement of the law throughout New England, has dwelt pass on cases of dispute over permits and returns of liquor that had to go go to Washington. He will be Commissioner Haynes' personal representative in New England."

FOES OF BRIDGE GIVE VIEWS AT STATE HOUSE

Mayor Edward W. Quinn of Cambridge and several landowners on the Boston side of Cottage Farm bridge today opposed the proposed new bridge from Arlington street on the Boston side to Magazine street on the Cambridge side.

The hearing before the legislative Committee on Ways and Means was attended by more than fifty remonstrating citizens of Cambridge. Property owners in Cambridge who favor the plan said that the proposed location would be more advantageous to the interests of the city, while those opposed said the new location would be injurious to realty on both sides of the river.

Henry J. Mahoney of the Cambridge Chamber of Commerce, Theodore H. Raymond, Charles J. Wilson and others favored the proposed location, while Mayor Quinn of Cambridge and Attorney Eldridge L. Anderson, representing Boston property owners, appeared in opposition. In opposing the new bridge Mayor Quinn said the new location would be dangerous to children going to the Magazine Street Playground, and would reduce real estate values.

John A. L. Collins of Watertown objected to that town being assessed 12 per cent of the cost of constructing the Arsenal street bridge, believing that the bridge is not only of interest to Watertown and Boston, but is also a link in the great chain of the Metropolitan Parks. Dexter J. Ellington, representing the Cambridge City Council, said: "I believe the building of a new bridge at Magazine street would destroy the Magazine Street Playground. With a high bridge, as the plan calls for, much dust would be picked up by autos. The dust would be blown down to the ground where children are playing and bathing."

Senator Wallington Wells of Boston said, the new bridge would cost about $175,000. It is proposed, he said, to amend the new bill so that street cars will run from that location on the bridge and on Magazine street.

POISONED BEAUTY WAS ARRESTED IN VICE RAID IN WOONSOCKET

CAUGHT IN ARMY CRUSADE

Beautiful Divorcee Had Penchant for Wealthy Students From Foreign Countries

Pauline Virginia Clark, who died of poisoning in her apartment, No. 282 Newbury street, March 16, was arrested in an army vice raid in Woonsocket, R. I., during the World War, the Boston American learned today.

The girl, who was described by the intelligence officer who conducted the raid, as one of the prettiest he had ever seen, was one of six women taken in one house and later released.

Some time later the Clark girl was seen in Boston accompanied by a naval officer who, it was learned, was Lieutenant-Commander Thomas, to whom she had been married only a short time before.

"The raid took place October 21, 1918," the former intelligence officer told the Boston American. "It was a big clean up of Diamond Hill, on the edge of Woonsocket. As a matter of fact it was the biggest clean-up that had been made, a large number of houses being visited. I remember that it was October 31 because we stopped in the yard of one of the houses and set our watches back, as daylight saving ended that day.

POSED AS WEALTHY WOMAN.

"Pauline Clark, who, I think, was known as Pauline Herrick at that time, was taken with five other women in what was known as the 'Old Kane place,' run by Carlo Peace.

"I don't recall that the girl was sent to jail, but that she was released. Some time afterward I saw her descending from a car at the corner of Commonwealth and Harvard avenues, with a naval officer. I recognized her immediately and on making inquiries, learned that the officer was Lieutenant-Commander Thomas, to whom she had just been married."

The American learned from another source that Lieutenant-Commander Thomas was unaware of Pauline Clark's mode of life when he married her. It was said that she posed as a woman of wealth, in this way explaining her expensive apartment, costly furnishings, clothing and jewels.

PENCHANT FOR STUDENTS.

She is said to have had a penchant for students from other countries, one of her most ardent admirers being a Brazilian, who is said to have been a student at Technology.

This man is declared to have showered jewels and gifts of all kinds on the vivacious and attractive Pauline, and is also given her money in large quantities.

Despite this fact she is said to have missed no opportunity to enjoy the company of other men.

KILLS BOSTON WIFE, THEN ENDS OWN LIFE

Delhi, N. Y., March 23.—Benjamin A. Cole, thirty-five years old, shot and killed his wife and then slashed his throat with a razor, dying almost instantly. Jealousy is believed to be the motive of the tragedy. Mrs. Cole's family, it is said, are living in Boston. The local police are endeavoring to locate them to inform them of the crime.

Reporters Swear to Crowley Statement

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

Suffolk, ss. March 22, 1922.

We, Harry A. Benwell of Arlington, in the County of Middlesex, and Francis C. McLean of East Boston, in the County of Suffolk, do on oath depose and say that in mid-afternoon on March 21st, 1922, we met Superintendent of Police Crowley at the corner of Pemberton Square and Scollay Square at Epstein's Drug Store.

We asked him if he would affirm a statement which appeared in the Boston Post of that day to the effect that the thirty-six (36) hours' delay in making his report by Medical Examiner Magrath had enabled the man Larsen to escape and eventually commit suicide.

Superintendent Crowley then made the statement, a part of which appears in the Boston American's issue of March 22nd in all editions. The only part of the statement which Superintendent Crowley made that we did not publish we incorporate in this affidavit. It is as follows:

I do not know what has come over Dr. Magrath in late years. Magrath used to be a good fellow, and gave the newspaper men whatever facts he had. He certainly has gotten himself into hot water this time. All the newspaper men are sore and I do not blame them.

In answer to a question, he said:

Dr. Magrath has been absent from the city on personal business during the course of the investigation. Dr. Leary and Dr. Watters are medical examiners who are always willing to give out their reports whenever they can do so.

I do not wish to criticize Dr. Magrath, and, in justification, will say that the Medical Examiner was not compelled to make a report to the police but was compelled to do so to the District Attorney.

I saw Captain Goode personally and obtained his version of the report made to him. Dr. Magrath strolled into Station 16 at 1:00 p. m., March 17th, when he made his request.

HARRY A. BENWELL.
FRANCIS C. McLEAN

Boston, Massachusetts. March 22, 1922.

Then personally appeared the above named, Harry A. Benwell and Francis C. McLean, each being individually sworn by me, who did on oath depose and say that the above statement by them subscribed is true.

BARKING HOUND SAVES SIX FAMILIES

The barking of a foxhound saved six families at a fire at Nos. 47-49 Brattle lane, Arlington, today. The dog, owned by Dr. Francis E. Talty, was a "guess" at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Donahue, on the first floor of No. 47 Brattle lane.

Its barking awoke Mr. and Mrs. Donahue, who smelled smoke, and investigating found the cellar in flames.

Donahue rushed through the house giving an alarm, and the six families hurried to the street by back and front stairways. All got out safely. Occupants of the building were Mr. and Mrs. Leslie V. Winship and two children, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gibbons and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Farrington and two children, John Dunn and Mrs. Mary Hoban. The fire swept the structure from cellar to roof with $10,000 damage.

CLARK-LARSEN INQUEST

wegian Club on Newbury street his style of dress, it turned out today his role of "Mr. Hyde" in the light of his escapades which resulted in the untimely deaths of himself and Miss Clark and continued to be looked upon as a morose, temperamental scholar, with a strange philosophy of life, was one of the mysteries of his career.

Otto Larsen was a brilliant and industrious student for the greater part of his five years of residence here, but, notwithstanding, he found time to meet many college girls and young society women with whom he is now known to have had affairs which would shock their friends and neighbors.

And these college girls and society matrons exchanged letters with the young Norwegian whose intellect and rather uncanny outlook on life appear to have made a peculiar appeal to them. The majority of these letters were of a decidedly amorous tenor. Many of the compromising epistles were found in the luxurious apartment of Pauline Clark at No. 12 Newbury street.

SAID LETTERS TO BEAUTY.

Larsen found delight in reading to Pauline Clark the amorous outpourings from the pens of his classmates and admirers and he had a habit of leaving them with her.

These letters held secrets. Other letters were found among his effects at No. 248 Newbury street. It was said today that if the names of these girls and young married women on Larsen's secret list and the names of the financiers and other men in affairs on the calling list of pretty Pauline Clark were made public it would cause a sensation.

Rumor in police and legal circles today intimated that if it was this mass of tell-tale evidence involving so many men and women of prominence that caused Medical Examiner Magrath to exercise unusual precaution in making public details in the double tragedy and in the tangled skein of love affairs back of the tragedies.

MOTHER DUE HERE TODAY.

Medical Examiner Magrath will not complete his report on the deaths of Miss Clark and Otto Larsen until after he has interviewed the girl's mother, Mrs. Sara Clark Herrick, who is on her way back from Kingston, Jamaica.

Mrs. Herrick is a passenger on the S. S. Mattapan of the United Fruit Company's line. The Mattapan is due at quarantine in New York late today and is expected to dock at 10 Friday morning.

Mrs. Herrick will be interviewed by Dr. Magrath and the police, after which she will be given the keys to her daughter's apartment on Newbury street.

MAGRATH STILL HOLDS BEAUTY WAS SUICIDE

Medical Examiner Denies Controversy With Police Head Who Branded Case 'Murder'

Regardless of the statement made to the Boston American by Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley that Pauline Virginia Clark's death by poison was murder, Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath reiterated today that the woman met a "suicide."

In an interview with a Boston American representative Dr. Magrath further declared that there was no controversy regarding the notification to the police of the woman's death.

He said, however, that his office notified the police on Friday morning, March 17, although Captain Thomas F. Goode of the Back Bay Station and Superintendent Crowley declared that the notification was received at 1 p. m. that day.

"I do not know of any controversy," declared Dr. Magrath. "Controversy over what? I do not make any report to the police. I do make a report to proper municipal authorities however. As a matter of fact, there was a notification from my office to the police of the Clark woman's death on Friday morning, March 17.

HAS NO CONTROVERSY.

"I have no statement to make. I have my duties to perform and understand them quite clearly. What I had to say was said. I did what I was required to do as medical examiner.

"As far as the statement is concerned that Larsen was enabled to get away my desire to talk with the man was made known to Captain Goode on Friday morning. Superintendent Crowley is an old friend of mine and I don't know of any controversy that he may have with me. He has not said anything to me about the matter. The trouble is that too many things have been said that were untrue. I am simply ignoring them and going quietly about my business."

Captain Goode repeated to the Boston American in more detail what Superintendent Crowley had previously stated in regard to the time the police received word of the woman's death from the medical examiner.

"Dr. Magrath came into the station at 1 p. m. Friday, March 17," said Captain Goode, "and gave me a copy of the report that he later issued to the newspapers. He told me that he had questioned all the other witnesses, and would like to talk with Larsen. I sent a man out to find Larsen, but he was unsuccessful in the search. As I understood Dr. Magrath to state, he wished to get Larsen merely to clean up all the witnesses."

MEANT NO CRITICISM.

The interview with Superintendent Crowley in which he declared that the death of Pauline Clark was a murder, and made delay by the medical examiner in notifying the police enabled Otto H. Larsen to escape and kill himself, was published by the Boston American yesterday. The same day Superintendent Crowley issued a denial of the statements in the interview. This denial appeared in another Boston afternoon newspaper and read as follows:

"I never made such a statement. Neither have I criticized Medical Examiner Magrath. Dr. Magrath is under no obligations to me.

"When I mentioned that the medical examiner did not tell me about the case until thirty-six hours after it was in answer to a question, not by way of criticism."

Despite this denial, Superintendent Crowley, did make these statements, together with others which appear in an affidavit published in today's issue of the Boston American. The statements were made to two members of the Boston American staff, and the time, place and manner in which the interview was obtained is set forth in the affidavit.

The additional statements were not printed in the original interview because of a desire to avoid placing the superintendent of police in the position of having criticized the medical examiner.

Torrey Says Beauty Spoke of 'Surprise'

Worcester, March 22.—Joseph R. Torrey of No. 52 Elm street, who attended Pauline Virginia Clark's party in her Newbury street, Boston, apartment, made his first statement on the case today.

"One thing Miss Clark drank the poison I was planning to leave," said Torrey. She said to me: 'Don't go yet. It's early and, besides, I've got a surprise for you. Don't go away. She certainly gave me a surprise."

Miss Ona Cossaie, who accompanied Torrey to the party, said: "I was not Miss Clark's chum, as some newspapers have declared. Miss Clark only had one girl chum I knew of. She was Miss Ella Foster of Boston. She lived with Miss Clark in an apartment in Charlesgate East and later at No. 233 Bay State road. It was through Miss Foster I met Miss Clark about a year ago. Miss Foster now lives in Worcester."

It was from the Bay State road apartment that Miss Clark was ordered after college students had staged parties there.

New York, March 23.—Four armed bandits held up the manager and two clerks of Edelstein & Brothers' pawnshop, No. 263 First avenue, today, and after filling four suit cases with jewelry, said by one of the proprietors to be worth several thousands of dollars, escaped in a taxicab.

'HONEY' HAZARD IN COURT FOR CONTEMPT

Miss Puffer's Attorneys Claim He Failed to Return $3,200 in Property

Arthur "Honey" Hazard, colored, who came into prominence some time ago when he made a trip from Ayer to Nashua, N. H., with Miss Mabel E. Puffer, daughter of a prominent Ayer family, was today before Judge Keating in the Superior Court on contempt proceedings, Miss Puffer's attorneys contended that he had failed to obey a court decree ordering him to return $3,200 in property to her.

Judge Keating ordered the case continued until April 4, after the woman's attorneys had asserted that Hazard had thus far paid back not a cent. The negro's counsel, on the other hand, maintained he had never received anything from the woman.

Hazard, according to testimony offered earlier in the case, had obtained more or less control over Miss Puffer while she was under the influence of a delusion. This delusion, it was said, imbued her with the belief that God had ordered her to marry one Charles McKee, an imaginary person, and she and Hazard had gone to New Hampshire to wed, only to be thwarted at the last moment.

During her delusion, it was testified, she had given Hazard large amounts of property. The court subsequently ordered him to return this.

HINT MYSTERY MAN SUICIDE TIPSTER

Copley-Plaza Guest Tells of Death Plans; 'Leahy' Found Unconscious

Discovery today of an unidentified man, unconscious and with his clothing wet and muddy, on a railway embankment near Massachusetts avenue, Roxbury, may clear up the mysterious "suicide tip" given to newspapers by a guest at the Copley Plaza Hotel.

The man who was found in Roxbury was taken to the police station, where he muttered the name "James Leahy" and then lapsed again into unconsciousness. He had apparently emerged from water a short time before he was found, but the spot where he was discovered is a long distance from any river or pond.

The police are trying to discover if this man is the same one who registered at the Copley-Plaza under the name of William Elliot of No. 46 Essex street, Bangor, Me.

Shortly after being assigned to No. 116 the guest called up a local newspaper and cried: "Get this number, room 116, Copley-Plaza. Something is going to happen."

In his room, which he left shortly afterward, was found a letter in which he announced he would kill himself by leaping from the hotel roof or by jumping into the Charles River. A guard was sent to the roof to forestall any such attempt, while others patrolled the river bank.

The man who was found in Roxbury was apparently about fifty-eight years old. He was without coat or hat, had blue eyes and gray hair and wore a blue shirt with brown trousers and black shoes.

Mother of Army Man Who Made 'Prussian' Charge Here to Aid Him

Major Wheeler-Nicholson and his wife, central figures in sensational charges against war chiefs. The major alleges he and his wife have been victims of military autocracy in power at capital. He defies court-martial in pushing fight.

Mrs. Wheeler-Nicholson in Boston to Get "Justice" for Major Who Wrote to Harding.

Boston today is the centre of the battle between Major Malcom Wheeler-Nicholson, author of the letter to President Harding complaining of "Prussianism" in the American army, and the War Department, with the arrival here of Mrs. Antonette Wheeler-Nicholson, the officer's mother.

She came to confer with Brigadier-General Edward L. Logan about a civil suit against several well-known army officers, as the result of what she terms the "cruel and abusive treatment" of Major Wheeler-Nicholson and his wife in Coblenz, Germany, and at Camp Dix, N. J.

She asserts that indignities have been heaped upon the Major's wife, and that he himself is, as he claimed, the victim of a senior clique in the army.

Major Wheeler-Nicholson is now under charges, although no order for his trial by court-martial has been issued. Charges of being absent without leave were preferred against him some time ago, but never came to trial, he having been accidently injured and taken to the Walter Reed Hospital in Washington.

MOTHER DEFENDS HER SON.

He was shot my mistake, when, arriving at Camp Dix in the middle of the night, he crawled into a friend's house through the window. He received injuries in his case a few weeks ago by deluging Congressmen with copies of a letter in which he repeated the charges he had made in his letter to President Harding, and made some new ones.

Mrs. Wheeler-Nicholson, his mother, explained her visit here to confer with General Logan as the act of a mother defending her son from wrongs he has suffered from officers of high rank in the army."

"He has fought Prussianism and abuse of the court-martial in the army for years," she declared. "Four times attempts have been made to frame him for court-martial. Officers have sworn falsely against my son to secure their superiors.

"Indignities have been heaped upon his wife. His salary has been held up for four months or more.

"Last year, in peace time, he was ordered away from his young wife in Coblenz, over the protest of her physician. He has been separated three times from his wife during illness. He has been sent to an infantry camp, when his unit is the cavalry.

RAPS ARMY INEFFICIENCY.

"I do not propose to have my son punished unfairly, as he is, by a clique does not dare to come out openly with the charges against him. They know that as soon as the public learns the truth, the justice of my actions will be clear.

"I have been to Major-General Harbour, chief of staff, but he will not listen to my story. President Harbord, chief of staff, but he will not listen to my story. President Harding to do something, but there is the Prussianism of the army standing in his way.

"I have come to Boston because I feel I can get justice here for my son."

Major Wheeler-Nicholson's letter to President Harding was a bombshell in army circles. He claimed he made the charges in the letter "for the good of the service," and acknowledged the realization that he had laid himself open to dismissal, formed by their Representatives just how some of the men who have been entrusted with people's savings have kept their trust. I believe that the public is entitled to a verdict upon those men as well as upon Mr. Allen.

forever silenced.

"The condition of the closed banks is not a question of argument. It is a question of fact. If the banks are solvent and secure they ought to be reopened so that the depositors may get their money. If on the other hand they are hopelessly insolvent, or if the assets of these banks have been wasted through mismanagement or dissipated through wrongdoing, then the former officials who have cried persecution ought to be forever silenced.

"I am confident that any fair investigation will demonstrate that Mr. Allen in closing the various institutions acted solely for the protection of the public, and that the public will approve his firm course in the face of constant abuse.

"On the contrary, if any fair tribunal should find that Mr. Allen's course had been otherwise than for the protection of the people, then I should feel it my duty to ask for his resignation.

REVIEW NOT ASKED.

"It is significant that although each one of the banks affected had a right to ask the Supreme Court for a review of the commissioner's act in closing the banks, not one of them has seen fit to ask for such a review."

Simon Swig of the closed Treasure Trust Company and Representative Lawrence Connolly, also of the closed Hanover Trust Company have been before the Legislature recently in favor of a petition by McNary for a general investigation. The petition is now in the hands of the legislative Committee on Banks and Banking.

Bank Commissioner Allen's term will expire tomorrow. Governor Cox sent the nomination of Allen to the Executive Council for confirmation at noon today. The term is three years and the salary $6,000.

ANNA RUSLING AGAIN ACCUSED OF THEFT

Back Bay Dressmaker Charged Alleged Gem Thief With Larceny of $50

Anna Rusling, beautiful Back Bay "Raffles," whose alleged jewelry thefts a month ago brought a dozen representatives of Boston jewelry houses into Municipal Court, has been arrested again.

Today she was arraigned in Roxbury Court before Judge Hayden charged with the larceny of $50 from a Back Bay dressmaker.

She pleaded not guilty and was held for trial on March 30.

Friends furnished bail.

The arrest took place at the beauty's apartments at No. 333 Beacon street, Back Bay. Patrolman Creighton of the Back Bay Station called with a warrant, sworn to by Mrs. Mary Brown of No. 24 Ivy street, Back Bay, charging theft.

According to the dressmaker, the famed "Raffles" called at her establishment on March 21. In her absence to wait on a customer, $50 in cash vanished from a purse.

"It's all a mistake," said the Back Bay beauty leaving court to step into a waiting taxi. "Only a piker would steal $50."

In Court on February 27 Miss Rusling was charged with the theft of gems valued at $5,000. She pleaded not guilty, through attorney Florence Sullivan, and a hearing was set for March 14. She was released in $4,000 bail.

ARMOUR GIRL DIES DESPITE 10 DOCTORS

Medical Skill and Wealth Unavailing in Case of Six-Year-Old Child

By International News Service.

Chicago, March 23.—Medical skill and science lost a battle here today when Gwendolyn, six-year-old daughter of Philip D. Armour, 3d, died in her father's home today. Ten of Chicago's most noted physicians and surgeons, aided by every facility that money could provide, failed to save the life of the child.

The little girl's illness was diagnosed as septicaemia, induced by a throat infection that developed about a week ago.

The entire Armour family was at the child's bedside and nurses of the wealthiest and most socially prominent people in Chicago were callers to make inquiries as to Gwendolyn's condition.

Gwendolyn was the elder of two children of Philip D. Armour, 3d, who is the grandson of the founder of the meat packing industry. Mrs. Armour was Miss Gwendolyn Condon of New York.

BONUS BACKED BY BISHOP ANDERSON

Urges Passage of Act in Justice to Veterans: Other Clergymen Support Bill

Clergymen of Greater Boston of all denominations express themselves as strongly in favor of the soldiers' bonus.

Many will urge their congregations on Sunday to place their signatures to the Boston American petition.

The Rt. Rev. Joseph G. Anderson, D. D., auxiliary bishop of Boston, vicar-general of the archdiocese of Boston, and permanent rector of St. Peter's Church, Meeting House Hill district, is strongly in favor of a soldiers' bonus and declares that he cannot understand how the matter can be debated or questioned.

Here is what he told a Boston American representative what he thinks about the subject:

"I am strongly in favor of a soldiers' bonus and my great surprise is to think that this matter even should be debated or questioned.

JUSTICE TO VETERANS.

"It should have been the very first thought of Congress to do justice to these boys who have given their services to the country. Had the present Congress shown a disposition to economize in the proper direction, especially in the direction of the Smith-Towner bill and other such bills where money has been squandered, there would have been money to help pay the boys a well deserved recognition of their unstinted patriotism.

"The only solution I now see is that the present Congress insist on the allies paying their debt, the interest being devoted toward paying a bonus."

The Rev. D. Harold Hickey, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Medford, is one of the strongest defenders of the bonus among the younger ministers of this denomination.

"Don't line up with the capitalists in opposition to the bonus bill," he urges. "Big business which reaped such a harvest during the war is the loudest in its opposition to any plan that would compensate the men who became poor while others became rich.

"Some say that some of the men do not want the bonus who went to the war. It is not a question as to their wanting it or demanding it but a question of simple justice.

THOUSANDS NEED HELP.

"Let those who do not need it, refuse it or give to those who do. Surely the country cannot do less than to see to it that the thousands who risked their lives, are helped to regain the place which they were obliged to relinquish.

"There are thousands of men who saw service in the army and navy who feel bitter over the treatment accorded them by the government.

"The first men discharged were turned into the streets in mid-Winter without a cent. Stung to shame, Congress doled out to them $60. This is like a joke in comparison with what other countries did for their soldiers.

"A sales tax would not be a terrible burden upon us. I have seen service during the war, mingled with men and know that the bonus bill is justice and should not be questioned."

MUST NOT FORGET BOYS.

The Rev. Frederick Palliding, pastor of the Newton Upper Falls Methodist Church, is another ardent advocate of the bonus.

"It is nothing but a just and fair minded act," he said. "Who is opposing it? Many who do not want to spend any more money on account of the war, though during the war they filled their coffers with thousands of dollars.

"We cannot do enough for the boys who served in this war. We ought to feel our obligation to them now as we did during the struggle."

1982 Wounded Veterans in Bonus Protest to Harding

By Universal Service.

Washington, March 23.—Charging that their attitude toward the bonus has been misrepresented, 1,982 wounded service men presented a personal appeal to President Harding.

John Thomas Taylor, vice-chairman of the American Legion, took the petition to the White House. Ten different groups of war veterans in different hospitals and vocational training schools joined in stating that persons opposing bonus legislation in the name of disabled men misrepresent them.

The petition states in part:

"These men protest vigorously against the misrepresentation of their real attitude by a few of their number located here in Washington, and they desire by this means to convey to you their true feelings with regard to their buddies with whom they served side by side in the World War."

Investigate Agencies Dealing in Claims

Washington, March 23.—Postoffice Department inspectors have had their attention called to many cases of agencies throughout the country advertising that they were able to obtain immediate action on claims by disabled veterans pending before the Veterans' Bureau, it became known today. Many of the agencies, it was said, maintained elaborate offices and advertised that within a short period after receiving a retainer of $10 to $50, they would secure favorable action in the settlement of any pending claims.

The department plans to conduct an investigation into the operation of such concerns, with a view to determining whether fraud orders shall be issued against such agencies operating under fraudulent claims. Officials intimated that possibly thousands of veterans or members of their families had paid into the coffers of irresponsible and dishonest agencies a considerable sum in the belief that their claims would be immediately settled.

HOTEL MAN APOLOGIZES FOR UPSIDE-DOWN FLAG

St. Augustine, Fla., March 23.—Before the full membership of the local post of the American Legion and approximately 2,000 spectators, Charles E. Young, Sr., hotel proprietor, hauled the Stars and Stripes to the top of the soldiers' memorial flag-pole here, saluted the emblem and apologized for having displayed the flag upside down on his hotel Monday as a "distress" signal. Young previously had explained that, having spent many years at sea, he knew a flag displayed inversely was a signal of distress and he did so because a carnival company had pitched its tents in the heart of the hostelry and was annoying his guests. Appeals to the authorities, he said, were without avail and the reversed flag was resorted to.

'MASTER MIND' IN BACK BAY BURGLARIES

Four Youths and Three Girls Are Probated in $20,000 Robberies

Four young men and three young women who, a few months ago, conducted a wholesale looting of Back Bay and Brighton homes, stealing property reaching a total value of $20,000, have been given probation in the Superior Court.

With disposition of these cases the authorities are now seeking a so-called "master mind" as the man who led the young people on in their long string of breaks.

Thomas R. Magnault, Herbert Duggan, Patrick J. Devine and John J. O'Brien, alias Martin, who were arrested following the recovery of some of the missing articles in rooms of the girls on Hemenway and St. Botolph streets, pleaded guilty to some of the counts alleging the receiving of stolen goods. They were placed in the care of Probation Officer Charles Warren.

The young women also were released on parole, it being stated to the court that they had been given good positions. It also was explained that they had not actively participated in the robberies.

Reference was made at the hearing to the "master mind" in the case and Assistant District Attorney Daniel W. Casey informed Judge Fessenden that efforts are now being made to apprehend this alleged leader.

VOTES TO MAKE WAR AGAINST SHIFTERS

Girl President of Vacation Association Calls Society "Immoral Organization"

New York, March 23.—The "Society of Shifters," a mysterious band whose charter is said to have originated in some flapper mind, was denounced today by Miss Gertrude Robinson-Smith, president of the Vacation Association, as the "most immoral organization" she ever heard of.

The Vacation Association voted unanimously to put the "Shifters" now and forever out of business.

Miss Robinson-Smith said the "Shifters" first came to her notice when scores of members of the Vacation Association, employed in stores and big business establishments, were unable to pay the small weekly amounts which the association collects and puts away for them as a vacation nest egg.

Reluctantly some of the girls explained the workings of the "shifters" the newest flapper fad, which was spread from the high schools and colleges to business girls whose vacations must come from other sources than "papa."

A member of this strange female bunco body, Miss Robinson-Smith learned, first approaches a girl friend and arouses her curiosity regarding the "shifters." Hearing all her friends talking about it, the victim soon signifies a desire to join.

"Put up your right hand, and swear you will never tell the secret," says the initiator, and the candidate complies. Then she is asked for an initiation feeanything from a quarter to a dollar.

"Now," says the initiator, you are a member of the "Shifters," and all you have to do is make me a present of a pair of silk stockings. Then go out and sting five of your friends."

"That is apparently all these is to it," said Miss Robinson-Smith, "but it's an abominable thing. The girls seem to be afraid of the stigma of not being 'game sports,' so they let themselves be made Shifters."

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads and that is to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of calomite powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin—pinching and squeezing only causes irritation, make large pores, and do not get them out after they become hard. The calomite powder and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anybody troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method.

BARS POLICY OF INSURANCE COMPANY

Mutual Benefit Life of New Jersey Violates State Law, Allen Holds

Holding that the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company of Newark, N. J., is doing business in violation of the law, Attorney-General Allen today sent an opinion to State Insurance Commissioner Clarence W. Hobbs that it is his duty to take such legal steps as may be necessary to prevent the company from doing any more new business in Massachusetts.

Fred S. Elwell, a Boston insurance expert, who preferred the charges against the corporation, declared the form of policy which the company is writing in alleged violation of the State insurance laws makes it possible for the policyholders to lose millions of dollars to the company.

Attorney-General Allen's opinion was also said by Elwell to be one of the most important and far-reaching actions involving the insurance business in at least a generation in this state.

BEGAN FIGHT LAST YEAR.

Elwell, who began his fight against the Mutual Benefit last September, charged that the company violates the law by offering to its policyholders a form of insurance known as the "accelerative endowment policy."

This type of policy, according to Elwell, was expressly forbidden by the State laws which were passed about 1894 to prevent a recurrence of the abuses revealed by the Armstrong probe.

As described by Elwell, this type of policy provides that the policyholder, instead of accepting the dividends payable to him by the company, may allow the corporation to retain the dividends and apply them to reduce the time of the expiration of the policy.

"A man may have a policy that has forty years to run," said Mr. Elwell. "Instead of taking his dividends, he would allow them to be paid in as premiums. That would reduce the time for the policy to expire. But if death came before the expiration of the policy, the company would pay only the amount of the face of the policy. The insured would have lost all the dividends which he allowed the company to retain.

MIGHT LOSE ALL DIVIDENDS.

"It is possible for an insured person to lose the dividends of forty years. Such a system would mean millions to the company."

Elwell asserted that the insurance laws provide that the surplus of a foreign insurance company doing business here must be offered to the policyholders in one of the four following methods: By payment in cash, applied to reduce the premium, to purchase additional paid-up insurance or be left to accumulate to the credit of the policy.

POSTOFFICE DEFICIT LAID TO PARCEL POST

Washington, March 23.—Responsibility for deficits in the Postoffice Department handling mails is attributed largely to the parcel post system, according to the joint postal commission which has been conducting a nation-wide investigation into the cost of the handling of all classes of mail. Officials declared the parcel post to be indispensable to the country, but asserted that some system should be devised to establish it on a paying basis.

CALL FOR ACTION TO STOP THEFT OF COAL

Springfield, March 23.—A resolution was adopted by the New England Coal Dealers' Association in convention here today asking the executive committee of the association to request the United States revenue service to co-operate toward preventing the pilfering of coal from barges and vessels en route from loading points to destination, and to use every authorized means to prevent the theft of coal. W. A. Clark of Northampton was re-elected president.

BREEDING FISH KILLED BY WATER PURIFIER

Washington, March 23.—A small quantity of chlorine, used recently for the first time to purify the city's water supply, has killed most of the fish in the aquarium and breeding tanks of the Bureau of Fisheries, it was made known today. All of the eggs on the screens and the young fry were destroyed by the chemical, harmless to man, which was made necessary in the water supply by the rolly condition of the Potomac River.

LAUNCH APPEAL FOR JOBLESS VETERANS

Call for 20,000 Jobs Issued in Circulars Distributed Over City

Another move to aid the former service men out of jobs was started today, when the Ex-Service Men's Welfare Society, No. 20 Hanson street, began the distribution of 10,000 "dodgers" throughout Greater Boston, calling upon citizens to provide odd jobs for the unemployed.

"Wanted, 20,000 Jobs for Unemployed Ex-Service Men," is the way the appeal is headed. It points out that "one day's work cleaning a back yard, washing windows, helping around the house or shop" will help out the former fighter in need of work.

Three employment offices in the city, where prospective employers can obtain reliable men, are given. They are: The Boston City Employment Office, No. 395 City Hall Annex; American Legion, State House, and the State Labor Office, No. 25 Pearl street.

"Those of us who have jobs can do our little bit and get work done that needs to be done by calling for former service men at these employment offices," explained the manager of the Welfare Society today in explaining the plan. "We have nothing to sell, but we are trying to help solve this problem in the only way it can be solved—by each one of us doing our share."

COAL FIGHT IS TO A FINISH, SAYS LEWIS

Operator Retorts That Issue Is "Union Autocracy vs. Liberty"

Washington, March 23.—The government can and will take action to protect the public interest in the forthcoming coal strike, Attorney-General Daugherty announced today. "If the strike comes, as now seems certain," he said, "the government will not wait until the country freezes to death before it acts."

By JOHN C. KLEIN,
Cosmopolitan News Service Staff Correspondent.

New York, March 23.—"The operators do not wish a settlement of the demands of the miners because they know that if this were done, the bottom would drop out of the coal market and the public would get cheaper coal," John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, said today.

"A continuation of agreements, upon any basis that does not leave the operators in a position to meet fair competition means financial ruin. It is a question of union autocracy," T. H. Watkins, president of the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke Corporation, declares.

Such divergent views as these are contained in the statements issued today.

POSITION OF MINERS.

"I have no reasonable ground for believing the strike can be averted," Lewis said. "As to how long the strike will last no one can foretell. The miners are in it to stay to the finish. It is a life and death fight for them. There is every indication that it will continue for a much longer period than the strike of 1919, for it means the existence of the miners and their families under living conditions.

"The operators are criticizing us because we will not agree to a piecemeal settlement, that is a settlement based on conditions in the different fields. It is provided in the agreement between them and the miners that any settlement shall apply nationally.

"We are simply asking the operators to keep their promise, as we are willing to do. We have asked them to hold a conference with a view of settling the difficulties arising, and this they have refused to do. They are evading the issue. They know the strike must be settled right.

"The operators say we should not ask for an increased wage because, as they claim, costs are coming down. The present tonnage rate paid miners is $1.08 per ton, which is 44 cents less than before the war. Look at the wages paid to the building industries in New York city today. Carpenters are getting $10 a day while equalled skilled labor among the miners is receiving only $7.50. Why should the miners be discriminated against?"

VIEWS OF WATKINS.

Watkins discussed reasons why the Pittsburgh and Southern Ohio operators have refused to go ahead with the provisions of the contract providing for a joint conference of operators and miners of the central competitive field.

"Since the signing of that contract, criminal indictments under the Sherman anti-trust law have been found in the Federal court at Indianapolis against both operators and officials of the union who had participated in these joint meetings," Watkins said.

"Those operators are still under $10,000 bail and have been advised by their attorneys that until their case is disposed of they should not participate in any further conferences. Their attorneys, however, advise them that they could, without violating the law, meet in conference with their employees, or the United Mine Workers officials in their own local districts. Pittsburg and Ohio operators have requested such a conference but the president of the United Mine Workers has refused to permit the members of the Union to meet in that manner, demanding a continuance of the old central field conferences.

"It is a question of union autocracy, control of the entire coal product or individual liberty, leaving operators and their employes free to make such contracts as are mutually satisfactory.

Final Conference on Hard Coal Strike

By Associated Press.

New York, March 23.—In an eleventh hour attempt to halt preparations for a nation-wide strike in the coal industry, the Arbitration Committee of Anthracite Miners and Operators met behind locked doors today at the Union League Club.

Upon today's conference will depend whether the 200,000 anthracite workers shall proceed with their 400,500 brethren in the bituminous fields, and prepare to drop their tools April 1, while their nineteen wage demands are given consideration.

Illinois Operators to Close Non-Union Mines

By Universal Service.

Chicago, March 23.—Illinois coal operators held a council of war here today and prepared for the threatened strike on April 1.

Though the meeting was executive enough of the details leaked out to indicate that operators planned to close every mine in the State and not attempt to use non-union men during the strike period.

Only maintenance men will be kept at the pits while the operators await a break in the ranks of the strikers.

Pennsylvania Miners Expect Compromise

Wilkesbarre, March 23.—Although mine workers throughout the anthracite fields are preparing to obey the call of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, for a suspension of operations April 1, the miners do not look for the suspension to grow into a strike.

GERMAN MARK SELLS AT NEW RECORD LOW

New York, March 23.—All previous low records for German exchange at this centre were shattered today, when the mark fell to 0.0023 or more than three for one cent. Dealers attributed the further weakness to the changes in the German reparation payments announced in Paris last night and the firm attitude of the United States government for the payment of the expenses of the army of occupation on the Rhine.

OPPOSES GOVERNMENT SHIPS IN CARIBEAN

H. T. McNice, an official of the United Fruit Company, has petitioned the United States Shipping Board to suppress the lines of government steamships trading in the Caribean trade routes. He is now in Washington. He contended that the private lines now engaged in the tropical trade are more than sufficient to take care of all the business. McNice argued that it was unfair to private enterprise to continue the government lines.

BAILEY FAILS TO SHOW AT RESERVOIR HEARING

The Committee on Water Supply at the State House expected that James A. Bailey of the Metropolitan District Commission would tell today what he knows about the proposed $60,000,000 appropriation to bring a new water supply to Metropolitan Boston, but he failed to appear. Two letters and several telephone calls to his office failed to reach him and the committee thought of sending a sergeant-at-arms to bring him, but the hearing finally adjourned to give him one more chance to appear of his own accord.

1,600 GUARDSMEN MAY STAY HOME THIS YEAR

Massachusetts may have to reduce her 1,600 men, the number of National Guardsmen who are taken yearly to Summer camps, if the action of the congressional committee in cutting from $43,000,000 to $21,000,000 the appropriation asked for by authorities is approved by Congress. This assertion was made today by Colonel Porter H. Chase. Colonel Chase characterized such action as "breaking contract with the State," and added that half of the 500 cavalry horses now maintained by the National Guard would probably have to be sold.

What Doctors do for their own sore throats

"I want to congratulate you, Doctor, on the great success I hear you are having with your throat cases. I myself have attacks of inflamed throat every winter, can't seem to get rid of them. Wish you would take a look at mine and tell me what to do.

"I guess, Doctor, I will have to introduce you to Formamint—a real good throat antiseptic with which you will keep the soft tissues in almost constant antiseptic bath, because you will find Formamint pleasant and convenient enough to use frequently. I find that the average patient will readily dissolve Formamint in his mouth every hour or so, and you know how hard it is to get them to use gargles or sprays consistently, even two or three times a day, especially children.

"Formamint tablets certainly relieve sore throats and are heading off a lot of tonsilitis for me, but I am even more interested in their prophylactic power, and so I am advising my patients to use them freely during the throat and influenza season to prevent infection."

Recommended by throat specialists, physicians, dentists and druggists.

GIRL FORCED TO WED TURKS IS TO BE BRIDE

Her Marriages Overseas Held Illegal, Brockton Miss Will Take Husband

Brockton, March 23.—After four years of suffering and abuse, in which she was forced to wed two officers in the Turkish army, Miss Oysanna Buckjian of No. 25 Beacon street, this city, is about to wed Michael Tarpian of Main street.

Even after the girl escaped from her Turkish husbands and made her way to America trouble seemed to follow her, for she was unable to secure a marriage license at first. The matter was referred to Secretary of State Frederick W. Cook, and he ruled forced marriages in another country are not legal here and the license will be granted.

Miss Buckjian is nineteen years old. It was when she was but fourteen that she was captured by a Turkish army officer. She was forced to wed him to save the other members of her family in Armenia.

Four months after the first forced marriage she claims she was taken from the Turkish officer by another officer in the same army and forced to marry him. Following the armistice she escaped and fled to America. Now comes happiness.

SEMINARY SENIOR IS KILLED BY AUTO

Olean, N. Y., March 23.—Never realizing what struck him, Roger I. Hayes, twenty-six years old, of Ireland, a senior in the seminary at St. Bonaventure and the soon to be admitted to the priesthood, was killed instantly by a speeding touring car in the highway between the college and the city line here. He was hurled on to the fender of the machine, carried about thirty feet thrown into the ditch and abandoned by the driver, who lost no time in disappearing. William Crawley, another student, was thrown several feet and is in a serious condition.

GERMAN FREIGHTER IN LEAKING BADLY

The freighter Deuel, loaded with German dyes, toys and fertilizers, from Hamburg, arrived in Boston today and went immediately to drydock in East Boston. Jammed in ice floes in the River Elbe in February at 25 below zero, leaks were started in the ship's seams, which grew worse as the voyage progressed. Crews manned pumps day and night. So badly did the vessel leak coming into port today Captain McKown, her commander, ignored her pier and steered for the drydock.

WATERBURY REPUBLICAN AND AMERICAN MERGED

Waterbury, Ct., March 23.—Announcement was made in the Waterbury American today that "the corporate interests of the Waterbury American and Waterbury Republican are consolidated, beginning with this issue." The American is an afternoon paper and the Republican a morning paper.

POLICEMEN ARE KILLED IN NEW BELFAST RIOT

Fatal Raid by an Armed Band Into Tyrone Makes Residents Flee

Belfast, March 23 (By International News Service.)—Two policemen were killed by a fresh outbreak of violence in Belfast today.

The fighting centred in May street. The policemen were trying to disperse a threatening crowd when someone opened fire. A revolver battle followed.

An armed band shot down a man at Greeves Mill.

Armed men, said to be members of the Irish Republican Army, made a raid in County Tyrone, killing a resident. The people are fleeing from the raided districts.

An unidentified man was killed by gunshot and a bartender was wounded during more rioting today. Three bombs were thrown, one of them wrecked the porch of St. Matthew's Catholic Church at Ballymacarrett. Two women who were just leaving the church, were injured.

The other two bombs wrecked the home of a spirit grocer in the outskirts of Belfast. There were no injuries reported.

Collins and Griffith to Act in Army Crisis

By International News Service.

Dublin, March 23.—The Dail cabinet—the executive branch of the Irish Provisional Government—was confronted with its worst crisis today as a result of the declaration by Roderick O'Connor that an attempt would be made by the anti-Collins faction of the Irish Republican army next week to overthrow the government.

The seriousness has been intensified by the apparent fact that the leaders of the Irish Republican army are going to hold the proposed military convention on Sunday in defiance of the wishes of Collins and President Griffith.

Collins and Griffith are expected to take at once drastic steps to deal with the threatened mutiny and rebellion.

Machine Guns Used Along Ulster Border

Belfast, March 23 (By the Associated Press).—Reports that the snipers on the Southern side of the Ulster border were using light machine guns against reconnoitring parties reached Belfast today.

All day yesterday snipers were active with their rifles, firing intermittently until a late hour in the sector between Auchnacloy and Caledon.

According to Fermanagh reports, all road traffic on the Free State side of the border in that vicinity has been suspended.

John Murdock, twenty years old, was halted by armed men in Falls road today and shot in the stomach. His assailants escaped.

The home of a "B" special constable in the Trillick district, south west of Tyrone, was attacked last night by armed raiders. The officer's brother was shot and killed.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY

Smart Set Members to Be "Models" in Fashion Revue

MISS LOUISA HOAR

Miss Louisa Hoar will be one of the "models" in the Fashion Revue, one of the features of "Why Not," the musical comedy being staged by society folk. Miss Hoar, and her sister, Mrs. Reginald Foster, will also present the "Moonbeam Dance."

By BETTY ALDEN.

THE most alluring and gorgeous gowns will be shown in Mrs. Alfred Codman's fashion revue, which is part of the very clever musical comedy, "Why Not," to be given on the last evening of the month at the Boston Opera House in aid of the Infants' Hospital.

And what is more—a group of attractive young women of the smart set have been selected as "models" for the revue. The complete list has just been announced, and is as follows: Louisa Hoar, Mrs. Reginald Foster (Frances Hoar), Lillian Aldrich of Beacon street, Elizabeth Caswell of Beacon street and Pride's Crossing, Mrs. Arthur Derby (Jeanette Barr) of West Hill place, Mrs. Samuel Eliot (Anne Bradley) of Chestnut Hill, Edith Chesebrough and Evelyn Gardiner, both debutantes; Mrs. Henry L. Sigourney (Helene Putnam), Ruth Paine, Georgiana Hawkins, Mrs. Theodore Frothingham, Jr., Anna Winslow, and last but not least, Helen Bennett of Beacon street.

Miss Bennett, who has been spending the Winter in Baltimore with her sister, Mrs. "Tom" Cottman, has come on to Boston especially for this occasion. Unless I am much mistaken, her host of friends here will give a number of functions in her honor during her sojourn in the Hub.

To those who have seen the Vincent Club shows, Miss Bennett needs no introduction, for she has won no little renown for herself by her clever impersonations of the leading male roles.

Besides taking part in Mrs. Codman's fashion revue—which is only one of the many features of "Why Not"—those very talented sisters, Louise Hoar and Mrs. "Reggie" Foster, will delight the audience with their "Moonbeam Dance." There are few members of the smart set who are not looking forward to this number, for the ability of these two young women to interpret the most difficult intricacies of terpsichore wins the most astonishing ease and grace, never fails to arouse the most hearty applause.

Mrs. "Reggie," whose marriage last June at the capital was a truly important nuptial event, has only recently returned with her husband from the honeymoon spent in the Far East. It is said that during the course of her travels the yong bride added quite materially to her terpsichorean repertoire with various steps suggestive of the mystic Orient. And now, of course, everyone is most anxious to see the "Moonbeam Dance," for this will be Mrs. Foster's first appearance since her return. Young "Reggie" Foster himself, who graduated from Harvard with the class of '11, is to take one of the prominent male parts in "Why Not," so that the entire "family" will be represented.

Although every seat in the orchestra has been sold out for the performance of "Why Not," I am asked to announce that there are still plenty of very good seats available for the balcony. Tickets are now on sale at Herrick's.

That everyone expects "Why Not" to be a "sure-fire hit" is quite certain, for a prominent committee has already arranged that "Why Not" being given on Saturday afternoon, April 1; also at the Boston Opera House, the proceeds to help carry on the Children's Temporary Memorial Hospital at Rheims. Tickets are now on sale at Herrick's for this performance, which will be given under the auspices of the American Fund for French Wounded.

All things considered, this is quite a feather in the cap of the competent committee in charge of "Why Not." But there is no reason whatsoever to doubt the "all-sure-fireness" of the success which "Why Not" is bound to make, for to quote Algernon Grieg, who is staging the show, "I have never seen a more willing bunch than the Boston cast for 'Why Not.' They come to rehearsals on time, and both chorus and principals show more and more talent every day."

Apropos of Mr. Greig—who is well known as a fashioner of amateur entertainments in New York and Washington and has staged a number of Junior League successes—his slogan for the shows which he stages is "They start on time, they end on time, and they don't go on forever."

C. C. A. PLANT MAY RETURN TO BOSTON

Company to Confer With Labor Officials on Re-opening Here

The C. C. A. Cigar Company today announced its intention of moving its large plant from Newark, N. J., to Boston.

The company will enter into a conference with labor officials with a view to smoothing out some of the misunderstandings that led to the removal of its large plant from Boston.

It is understood the plant will be run under organized labor conditions if the union will agree to the introduction of machine in the making of cigars.

The cigar makers are receiving on an average of $25 a week. The C. C. A. plans to increase that amount by $10 a week.

It is expected, if the C. C. A. Company's negotiations are successful, that several other cigar manufacturers will return to Boston.

"The offer of the company is the first offer from any manufacturer, who has the welfare of labor at heart, to endeavor to make it possible for labor to earn more than the scale called for by the unions, and still under grandiose conditions."

'BUTLER ALWAYS MAKING LOVE AT CLUB'

Mrs. Mellon Says Her Daughter Is Not Concerned With Probst Case

San Francisco, March 23.—Auguet Probst, former butler at the exclusive Rolling Rock Club, near Pittsburgh, who charged that he was the victim of a deportation conspiracy because a young heiress lost her heart to him, "always wanted to make love to every woman at the club," according to Mrs. Richard K. Mellon, who has arrived here.

Mrs. Mellon, wife of a Pittsburgh financier and sister-in-law of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, pooh-poohed Probst's assertion. She had advised him to return to Switzerland on account of the romance said to have existed between the young butler and Miss Virginia C. McKay, Pittsburgh heiress.

Mrs. Mellon said Probst's story was "silly, trivial and ridiculous."

"I have no recollection of ever seeing Probst except as a servant who occasionally waited on us at the club," said Mrs. Mellon. "Of course, I knew him, as did all members of the club.

"The story is ridiculous on the face of it. I know my daughter was not mixed up in it and I am certain Miss McKay is absolutely blameless."

Mrs. Mellon's daughter, Miss Sara C. Mellon, was said by Probst to have enjoyed the confidence of Miss McKay in regard to the affection the butler said existed between the heiress and himself.

BOSTON MAN MUST PAY $1 HEART BALM

Chicago, March 23.—She said that had she received a verdict of $50,000, it would not have made her smile.

As a matter of fact she was allowed $1 in her $50,000 breach of promise suit against John Wood Brooks-Ladd of Boston.

So you can imagine how Miss Ethel Jay French looked.

"We won a justification verdict anyway," her attorney said.

Miss French, who had fainted five times during the proceedings, scowled.

"Money cannot mend a broken heart," she said.

SEES SAVING OF $8,000,000 FOR STATE

Merrick Cites Figures, Urging Commission on Necessaries of Life Be Retained

The Commission on the Necessaries of Life has saved the people of the State $2,000,000 within a year by its aggressive interest in the public welfare, Frank W. Merrick of the United Improvement Association said to the legislative Ways and Means Committee today. Merrick figured as follows:

Reduced the price of milk two cents a quart on 750,000 quarts a day—$,475,000.

Reduced the price of coal fifty cents a ton on 5,000,000 tons—$2,500,000.

Adjusted 6,521 rent cases, saving court expenses of at least $10 a case—$55,210.

Merrick urged the commission be continued for at least one more year.

BOYS SAY THEY WERE TAUGHT TO STEAL

Held in Taunton, They Accuse Dorchester Man as Modern Fagin

A Fagin, living on Belden street, Dorchester, is training young boys in breaking and entering, thieving and disposing of loot, according to fourteen-year-old Charles O'Brien, arraigned in Taunton Court today charged with breaking and entering.

O'Brien, who lives on Brook street, was arraigned with John McCarthy, also fourteen, of Freeport street. They were charged with breaking into a jewelry store in Taunton. The police said the boys took watches and other jewelry worth $2,200 and hid the loot in boxes under a lunch cart.

The boys said the Belden street Fagin had coached them for a long time, giving them expert instruction in entering buildings, selecting valuable stuff and disposing of it.

Following the lessons learned of this Dorchester thief-trainer, they said, they broke the transom over the jewelry store door and crawled in. Young McCarthy caught the falling glass in his hat to prevent noise.

The boys said they planned to get rid of the loot through a "fence" in Hanover street, but refused to tell his name. The boys' cases were continued until next Thursday.

TEMPERANCE A LIVE ISSUE, COURT RULES

Woman suffrage is a dead issue, but temperance is a live one, according to the Massachusetts Supreme Court, which today issued instructions that money left for the promotion of woman suffrage need no longer be paid, but cash left for temperance propaganda must be paid. The instructions were in response to a request from Frederick C. Bowditch, trustee of the estate of James Jackson, a Boston florist who died in 1890. His will created a trust fund for the woman suffrage and temperance movement. The court points out that there is a distinction between prohibition and temperance.

BROKERS SUSPENDED BY N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, March 23.—Archibald B. Boyd and Percy R. Gaspel today were suspended from the New York Stock Exchange for one year. Seymour L. Cromwell, president of the exchange, declared the suspensions were based on a resolution of the governing committee which prohibits members from dealing with outside concerns or making a practice of taking the side of the market opposite to their customers in transactions made for their own account. The specific charge against each man was not divulged.

FEARS TO TAKE HIS LIQUOR HOME

East Boston Man's Seized Goods in Station House Awaiting Decision

Edward Di Napoli had $1,000 worth of fancy liquors at his home, Maverick square, East Boston. On February 4 policemen seized it and hailed him into court, where he was found not guilty of keeping and exposing the liquor for sale. Judge Barnes ordered the police to deliver the liquor to Di Napoli.

Last week Cosimo Nicastro, an attorney, attached the liquor, which is housed in a cell at the station. Nicastro said Di Napoli owed him money.

With the aid of the police department attorney, it was decided that goods in police hands can't be attached, and the attachment was removed from the liquor. Di Napoli was free to take it, but feared to have it carted home, lest he be charged with illegally transporting it. The police won't deliver it.

Di Napoli's lawyer is now trying to get a permit from Prohibition Director Potter to cart the liquor back to the cellar and police lawyers are trying to ascertain whether, because Judge Barnes used the word deliver, it's up to them to provide transportation.

Says It Would Be Wrong to Abolish Crying This Is the Only Pleasure Some Women Have

In the olden days every city had professional mourners; they were paid by the city to feel bad.

Times have changed. Most of us are feeling bad today, only we're doing it for nothing.

Our ancestors had the right idea. Why cry yourself when you can hire somebody else to weep for you?

In those days you could give a guy a dollar and he'd shed all the tears you wanted.

And for fifty cents more he'd go into hysterics.

Still, it would be wrong to abolish crying. This is the only pleasure some women have.

These professional mourners would come in handy today. If you lost your job it would be pretty nice to give a guy two bucks and let him worry for you.

You could even give him a check and let him worry about whether it was good or not.

If you were starving to death all you'd have to do would be to employ some guy to go hungry for you.

It would be pretty soft to hire some bird to feel bad for you around the first of the month.

A man gets tired of worrying over his own bills.

Your mourner could fall on your creditors and they could all cry together.

Still, a lot of guys would be worrying about their worrier.

They'd be worrying about whether he was worrying or not.

There would be a lot of profiteers who'd get five dollars from you to cry and then give some other guy two and a half to do it for them.

54-HOUR BILL IS DEFEATED IN COMMITTEE

Repeal of Minimum Wage Law for Women and Children Also Rejected

The bill to establish a 54-hour law in Massachusetts was today rejected by the legislative committee on social welfare.

The vote of the committee was unanimous against the bill.

The committee also rejected the bill to repeal the minimum wage law for women and children.

In place of that bill, the committee reported a resolve providing for a study of the minimum wage law by a special commission.

Repeal of the present 48-hour law, affecting 450,000 working women and minors in this State, was sought by the Arkwright Club, a union of textile manufacturers and other business interests which, sought to restore the old 54-hour conditions.

Sending Sugar to Europe

Boston sugar refiners are selling refined sugar to European countries in big quantities. Ships scheduled to sail during the next few weeks have already booked 27,000,000 pounds of refined sugar and inquiries for cargo space continue. The American steamship Easter Leader will sail for Hull and New castle March 30, with approximately 1,245,000 pounds.

BANKS DEMAND STATE TAXES BACK

Five National Institutions Say $2,314,456 Illegally Collected

That five National banks in Boston have paid $2,314,456 in State taxes since the establishment of the State income tax in 1917 was revealed today, when declarations were filed in the suits of the banks against the city.

According to the declarations the National Shawmut Bank has paid $1,458,281; the National Rockland Bank, $117,806; the National Union Bank, $48,000; the Citizens' National Bank, $50,318, and the Peoples' National Bank, $39,886.

The declarations set forth that the taxes are illegal and in violation of the United States Constitution. Similar suits have been filed for other banks throughout the State.

Attorney William F. Evarts, counsel for many of the banks, said: "These suits are brought to determine whether it is legal to tax national banks at their market value, when moneyed capital in the hands of individuals is taxed on income. National bank shares are taxed market value at local rate."

Takes the place of bar soap

Just soaking in big lasting Rinso suds does away with almost all rubbing

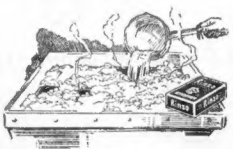
The most ground-in dirt is loosened without injuring a thread. Only the dirtiest places need a light rubbing. Dissolve Rinso in boiling water. Use enough to get big lasting suds. Soak an hour or more—overnight if you wish. (Colored clothes only half an hour.)

If you like to boil your white cottons

Boiling isn't necessary when you use Rinso, but if you like to boil your white cottons, let the safe Rinso suds boil through and through them. Use enough Rinso dissolved in boiling water to give you the suds you like. No other soap—no washing powder—is needed with Rinso.

For the very dirtiest places

A little dry Rinso sprinkled directly on the dirtiest places makes even the most obstinate dirt disappear with just a light rubbing. Rinso has more cleansing power than is possible in bar soap.



If you use a washing machine

Rinso suds have enough body to get clothes clean without rubbing. Use one Rinso solution to make rich suds. Operate your machine. You need no other soap, no washing powder with Rinso.

At every step of the family wash Rinso does the work—You need no other soap

METROPOLITAN TRANSIT BODY PROPOSED

Commission With Broad Powers Urged at State House Hearing

A metropolitan transit commission, with broad powers which would enable it satisfactorily to solve all of the traffic problems of Greater Boston, was urged as a necessity by a number of speakers today before the Street Railway Committee at the State House.

At the same time, speakers representing the cities of Revere, Everett, Chelsea and Malden declared the Legislature should authorize the taking over of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway in those four cities. This, it was urged, would relieve citizens of those municipalities from the penalty of being obliged to pay two fares for travel in the metropolitan area.

The Transit Commission, as proposed, would consist of five members appointed by the Governor. The chairman would receive a salary of $8,000 yearly, while the other members would be paid $7,000.

Robert Walcott, representing the Public Utilities Committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, urged the establishment of such a commission as part of a proposed Metropolitan planning board, which would have broader powers. Professor Swain of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, former chairman of the old Boston Transit Commission, declared the commission should be empowered to make a systematic study of transportation problems.

Other speakers asserted the street railway problems here have been given a "surfeit of study," and said that the time has now come for action.

WIDOW COLLAPSES AFTER IDENTIFYING WESTLING

New York, March 23.—Mrs. Ursuline Molliar, widow of Carl Molliar, a local Bronx jeweler, who was shot to death December 24, last, when an attempt was made to rob the Molliar home of a quantity of jewelry, collapsed on the witness stand today before Supreme Court Justice Mitchell and a jury trying Alek Westling for the murder. Westling, formerly of Worcester, Mass., was asked to stand up by District Attorney Glennon when Mrs. Molliar took the stand. "Is that the man who shot your husband?" asked the prosecutor. Indicating Westling. "Yes," replied the woman, and then collapsed.

MEN WHO SOLD LIQUOR TO VETERANS FINED

Federal Judge Morris today after imposing a fine of $200 on James McMahon and a fine of $100 on Patrick Gately for selling half a pint of liquor to Harry M. Moore, a World War veteran receiving treatment at the Parker Hill Hospital, revoked the sentence for 20 days in order to allow counsel for the defendants time to file a bill of exceptions.

Both men were found guilty by a jury. McMahon was proprietor of a near-beer saloon in the vicinity of the hospital and Gately was in front of the bar where he gave the liquor to Moore, who had a bottle.

Antclitte, Out of Jail, to Wed as Soon as Law Permits

Bridegroom in Wedding Halted by Police Will First Seek Freedom from Legal Wife.

"I am going to marry Helen Boats if I have to wait a hundred years. She is my idea of what a real woman should be. She shall be mine!"

Thus declared Elmer C. Antcliffe of Waltham as he left the East Cambridge Jail after a 30-day sentence for declaring himself a single man when he applied for a license to marry Miss Boates a month ago.

Their wedding was stopped by the police when Antcliffe and Miss Boates arrived at the clergyman's home for the ceremony.

To the Boston American reporter Antcliffe declared he plans to marry Miss Boates just as soon as he can extricate himself from the peculiar marital entanglements which involve him, his wife, Maude, and Parker C. Mosher of Hyde Park.

It was a Boston American reporter who made the startling discovery that Mrs. Antcliffe and Mosher had been living together for years as man and wife, after she had been given a "release" by her husband, Elmer H. Antcliffe.

This "release" Mrs. Antcliffe believed, she said, to be a legal separation. As a result of this belief she and Mosher say they were married in Philadelphia. When the unusual "gift wife" arrangement was disclosed they were living in Hyde Park, where Mrs. Antcliffe was prominent in church and society circles.

GOES TO BOATES HOME.

Now Antcliffe declares that he has one great object in life: to marry Miss Boates, who has stood by him through his difficulties. Miss Boates smilingly agrees that his object is a worthy one and declares that the happy day cannot come too soon to please her.

When Antcliffe stepped from the East Cambridge jail he was greeted by Miss Boates, who had waited more than an hour for him to step forth. It was an affectionate meeting, and tears welled up in Antcliffe's eyes when she saw her.

They went to the home of Miss Boates on Felton street, Waltham. There Antcliffe will remain for the present. The modest little home had been cleaned from cellar to garret for the joyous home coming and when Antcliffe stepped in the door he was greeted by the music of the same phonograph that poured forth wedding music on the day the wedding of Miss Boates and Antcliffe was stopped by the police. But this time the music sounded different to Antcliffe.

"You can tell the world that I am still in love with Miss Boates," declared Antcliffe today. "I am going to marry her as soon as I can free myself from my present marital difficulties.

VISITED HIM EVERY WEEK.

"I shall marry her if I have to wait a hundred years. There are not many women who would do for a man what she has done for me. She is a little brick. I love her and she shall be mine."

Asked what steps he was planning Antcliffe intimated that he would start divorce proceedings soon. He would not state this positively, but declared "I am going to marry Miss Boates. That cannot be done while I am still married to another woman."

"Miss Boates has been simply wonderful to me during my jail term," said Antcliffe." She visited me once a week—all she was permitted—and wrote me once a week. She could do no more because of the prison rules. She has stood the taunts of so-called friends and has remained true to me. What a wonderful girl!

"No, I do not care to discuss my wife. She has been discussed enough already," declared Antcliffe. She can talk for herself." It is a good thing, however, when you look back on it, that this mixup came to light when it did. If it had become known a day later then there would have been trouble.

PAID "DEBT TO SOCIETY."

"I have made my big mistake. I have paid for it—paid dearly. I feel that my thirty days in jail has satisfied the debt of society, and now all I want is to be let alone, to get a job and to marry Helen."

Miss Boates, her eyes sparkling with joy, laughed happily as her sweetheart talked. She clung to his arm and gazed at him as though he had just returned from a journey of many years.

"I love Elmer just as much today as I ever did," she told the reporter. "I am going to wait for him. I am going to marry him. I only hope the time comes soon.

IN STRANGE LOVE DRAMA.

With that she again gazed lovingly at her lover, who blushingly nodded his approval.

GERMANY MAY REFUSE TO GO TO GENOA

Indemnity Conditions Turn Leaders Against Economic Conference

By International News Service.

Berlin, March 23.—Germany may refuse to attend the International Economic Conference at Genoa as a result of the severe indemnity conditions imposed on the country by the Inter-Allied Reparations Commission, it was learned today.

It is expected the developments of the week will show whether or not this country will participate at Genoa.

It is understood the German government has decided to reject the Reparations Commission's decisions, which impose a virtual financial guardianship on the country. The people would be burdened with an additional 60,000,000,000 marks in taxes alone.

The only question is what form the rejection shall take. Chancellor Wirth may take resignation on a sharp note which will mean that Germany will not consider the demands.

Indignation has centred against Premier Poincare of France, who is characterized as "Germany's hangman."

Premier Poincare knows that he is confronting Germany with obligations that cannot be fulfilled," said the Lokal Anzeiger. "But he continues to play his wily game of fighting the war after the war is over."

BACK FROM PORT PARLEY AT CAPITAL

Governor Channing H. Cox, returning to his office today from the Washington conference held to promote New England's business interests, said the major effort would be made to abolish the railroad differential in freight rates which discriminates against all New England. He said he expected a decision on the essentials by the Interstate Commerce Commission before the commission adjourned for its Summer recess.

VETERANS BUREAU MAY DIRECT WAR HOSPITALS

Washington, March 23 (By International News Service).—President Harding will be asked to issue an executive order transferring sixty soldier hospitals from the United States Public Health Service to the Veterans' Bureau, Colonel Charles R. Forbes, director of the bureau, announced today. The transfer will affect 23,000 veterans now being cared for by the government. Forbes said that the change would be entirely administrative and would require no new appropriations.

TWO COUPLES HELD ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Two men and two women were arraigned in the Roxbury Court today, charged with violations of the liquor law. They gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. Leo Murphy, Queensbury street, Back Bay, and Mr. and Mrs. John Dahill of Huntington avenue, Roxbury. They were arrested by Patrolman Peter Coleman, who testified he had called at the Queensbury street house and asked for liquor and was sent to the Roxbury address. There, he said, he was sold a bottle of gin for $6. The case was continued until March 31

Doctor at 82 Finds Mothers Prefer His Formula to New-Fangled Salts And Coal Tar Remedies for Babies

Judgment of 1892 vindicated by world's approval of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a simple vegetable compound for constipation—So safe thousands give it to babes in arms—Now has largest sale in the world.

WHEN a man is in the 83rd year of his age, as I am, there are certain things he has learned that only time can teach him. The basis of treating sickness, has not changed since I left Medical College in 1875, nor since I placed on the market the laxative prescription I had used in my practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of my Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of Egyptian Senna and other mild laxative herbs with pepsin.

Recently new medicines have been brought out for constipation that contain calomel, which is mercury, salts of various kinds, minerals, and coal tar. These are all drastic purges, many of them dangerous, and the medical profession

$10,000 Worth of Syrup Pepsin Free

From a recent portrait of DR. W. B. CALDWELL Founder of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Born Shelbyville, Ills., 1839

is warning the public against them. Certain coal tar products will depress the heart; certain salts give rise to intestinal poisoning, impaction and rupture of the intestines. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with pills and powders and strong drugs, even if disguised in candy? My remedy, too, costs less than most others, only about a cent a dose. A bottle such as you can find in any drug store, will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the babe in arms because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal.

The formula of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is on the cover of every bottle, and the ingredients have the endorsement of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia.

In remembrance of my 83rd birthday I have set aside the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars to be given away in half-ounce bottles of my Syrup Pepsin. Only one Free Trial bottle to a family. All are constipated now and then, and here is an opportunity for you and others to try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin FREE OF CHARGE. Ask for your free bottle today, simply sending name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 514 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Do not postpone this.

YOUTH OFFERS SELF AS SLAVE FOR MOTHER

A BARE-FACED STATEMENT! Mlle. Dheriya, whom beauty experts have just selected as the girl with the most beautiful profile in Europe. She has been for years the "toast of Paris." (International)

DRESSING For The Chickens! Models wearing creations of girl art students throughout the country, who submitted original sketches of garments for exhibition at the Art Centre Galleries, N. Y., on March 23. (Underwood)

NO SPEEDING ALLOWED! This Filipino passenger says there's no thrill like tearing up the road at a speed of about two miles an hour in this primitive car, drawn by a carabao. (International)

ATTENTION, CLASS! Prof. Haake of the University of Wisconsin finds that he can save time and expense by giving lectures over the radiophone. This photo shows him lecturing to an assemblage in Oshkosh in the same State. Oshkosh students are delighted with the innovation. (Wide World)

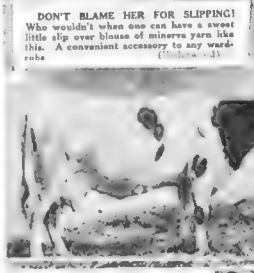
CHARLEY JONES of Anaheim, Cal., who has offered to sell himself to the highest bidder for life to obtain funds to save his mother's eyesight. (International)

MEMBER of British "Boorage"! Sir T Dewar, Scotch distiller, knighted because of his interest on behalf of excellent distilling. (International)

A FLEETING GLIMPSE OF THE HONEYMOON! One of the few pictures to reach America showing Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles on their honeymoon in the seclusion of Wauton Park. It shows the royal bride feeding carrots to a famous hunting horse.

GETTING IT IN THE NECK! Evildoers in China fare rather sadly. This chap, chained beside the road at Hankow, China, carries a large wooden collar on which is written the record of his crime. The censure of the public is heaped on him as they pass

REX INGRAM and his bride, formerly Alice Terry, have just gone on their honeymoon after four months of marriage. This photo was taken at San Francisco (International)



DON'T BLAME HER FOR SLIPPING! Who wouldn't when one can have a sweet little slip over blouse of minerva yarn like this. A convenient accessory to any wardrobe (Underwood)

IN THE SWIM! CAPT. SIDNEY HINMAN, dressed in a "safety suit," jumped off a ferry boat and paddled up the Hudson to the Battery, N. Y., in one hour, thereby winning a wager. (Wide World)

TREE AND HISTORY! The famous "Webster Tree," under which Daniel Webster delighted to sit in the yard of his home at Washington, D. C., has been removed to the Lincoln Memorial Grounds, where it will have a permanent resting place in keeping with its dignity and historic past. Photo shows the tree being transported through the city.

"RIGHT OVER, NOW!" "Us boys" are getting ready for a great (sniff, sniff,) demise of grandmothers. Here's little Don Comerford, 3, son of the Brooklyn Dodgers' trainer, warming up before the big fellows left Jacksonville, Fla. (Underwood.)

"WISCONSIN'S PRIDE 2ND," a Friesian, has broken all records in her class by producing in one year 29,502.9 pounds of milk. (Wide World)

CARVING HER WAY! Miss Beatrice Fenton of Philadelphia, awarded the George W. Widener Memorial Medal for the best sculpture at the academy exhibit, Philadelphia. (Underwood)

THEY SHAKE A MEAN SHEET! Filles de chambre of Los Angeles and Pasadena met the other day in a bed-making contest and when the "bedlam" was over they were not, we are glad to report, three sheets to the wind. Smart set witnessed the novel contest. The large photo shows the maids "doing their stuff." Miss Frances Dominick of Los Angeles (insert) won the first prize. She made a bed in 3 minutes 45 seconds. The Best Record is Better on a Sonora

THE most famous motor cars are not produced by the tire manufacturers, the greatest of player-pianos are not all made by the producers of rolls. Nor is the "Highest Class Talking Machine in the World" a product of the record industry.

With no division of effort, with the whole force of a great organization devoted single-mindedly to making the Sonora alone, a great phonograph was inevitable.

This policy has made Sonora so high an achievement in phonograph construction that it plays perfectly ALL MAKES of records and was the first phonograph to do so. Actual comparisons demonstrate that records give BETTER results when played on the Sonora.

Whatever is worthy of phonograph reproduction, is worthy of the best reproduction obtainable. When you purchase the Sonora you purchase perfection of tone—tone so mellow, so perfectly shaded, so warmly resonant and pure that the Sonora was awarded highest score for tone quality "by the only jury which heard and tested all the phonographs at the Panama-Pacific Exposition."

SOME of the new Paris gowns are showing their waistlines a trifle and Martial & Armand's formal afternoon dress uses a wide girdle to achieve this effect. Of water cream crepe lamé and crystal fringes and tassels are the embroidered glimmer. This season's models take to bare. And by this we mean a real sort of deltoid in the sheer sleeves.

CREPE DE CHINE in pale coral color is used for a Jeanne Lanvin dress, which one feels was specially designed to carry about an exceptional pair of scarves. These are wide from the armhole to the middle of the forearm, where they are ruffled and caught into deep and tight fitting wrist sections. And the entire sleeve up and down and around, is trimmed with bands embroidered in coral leaves of different sizes. This bead design is repeated on the girdle

CHAMPIONSHIP TENNIS MATCHES ORDER OF THE DAY AT LONGWOOD COURTS

ART OF PLAYING MEDAL GOLF SHOULD BE CULTIVATED

By JOCK HUTCHISON

The problems that face the duffer in golf are somewhat worse than those of the beginner at most games. The duffer, however, is what we call the hopeless golfer.

"Once a duffer, always a duffer," so the saying goes. It is pretty nearly always true, because the typical duffer is so entirely satisfied with himself that he never takes the trouble to learn the game

The beginner is always a more hopeful proposition to handle than the duffer because the latter is usually set in his way, while the beginner may be a champion in the making and a willing student. All champion golfers come from beginners, but few, if any, make any success at the game by graduating from the duffer class.

The duffer has learned to make his shots in a limited way. He may occasionally play a good round in spite of a bad form, or lack of knowledge of playing any one shot properly.

The difficulties that hamper the duffer are nine-tenths in his head. Some players have a poor golf head and they never will become golfers, no matter what they may do to correct their faults.

The lack of real head work comes in when they start in a qualifying round and begin immediately to worry over the counting of each and every stroke, as we all know the tiniest putt must be holed out.

The medal round is harder than the match because in the latter one bad hole will not ruin a good score, as it does in medal play. The art of playing medal golf should be cultivated and no golfer should get it into his head that he does not like this form of play.

In the early days of golf match play was the only form of competition. For years and years we had match play, but no medal contests, such as we have now. Golf is over 400 years old, yet medal play championships are comparatively modern. They date back to seventy years only.

If the duffer will use his head a little he can score better in medal play. In the first place he should figure only on making a score that is quite possible. If this is to be beaten it will not be done by pressing for it. The best scores are usually the result of easy play which sometimes borders on the indifferent.

The duffer in a contest is brought face to face often with vexing situations. There is always the question popping up about the shot to play or not going for it with all one's might.

This is where many mistakes can be avoided by using a little head work. Every golfer knows that it is possible for him to do and what is usually impossible. He knows whether a hole can be made in five or whether it is a four or a six. By attempting the impossible carries, he fails and runs up a score on the hole that should have been a five for him, or he has used bad headwork.

When a mistake is lost it is foolish to think right away of getting the stroke back. This often leads to more trouble. The breaks in the game will about even up in a round, so it is best to wait for an opportunity where there is little or no chance of throwing away more strokes.

Match play is another thing, and to many players more exciting because personality enters into it. You are playing against another player and his personality may have a direct bearing on the outcome of the match, especially if he is one who has been in the habit of beating you three times out of four.

Most duffers and not a few golfers lose a half a dozen holes on the first tee because of the opponents they are pitted against. If one believes that a match is lost before he hits the first ball, the chances are that it will wind up very disastrously. A player who admits defeat beforehand is usually looking for a good chance to lay down.

The only way one can buck up his courage is to refuse to consider an opponent's god or bad points. Anything can happen in match play, and it is frequently the case that a good man is beaten by a poor one, or rather one who was not thought to have a chance with him.

If an opponent constantly outdrives you it is best that you do not use the clubs from the tee. Play your own game at all times but avoid stretching for more distance or playing the shots safe when your opponent asks to be out of it often fatal. The best idea, at all times, is to play for the figure you are sure of making easily and put it up to your opponent to beat it.

Safe play is fatal most of the time, except on the greens. One never knows just what sort of recovery his opponent is going to make and what luck will attend his next shot.

One of the hardest shots in the game is the four-foot putt for a half after a player has had a good chance to win the hole. Many holes, apparently won, are lost through safe play. Another hard shot is that made from a bunker, because often the ball trickles into the trap or will be missed altogether through indifferent play.

GIANTS LOOK LIKE ONE OF BEST NATIONAL LEAGUE TEAMS

By NICK FLATLEY.

The club's Nestor on coaxed the young Lagies [illegible] and then put the germ of mentum back in the heart of the veteran Casey Stengel. Casey is good enough for any major league club, if he's trying. He has been dissatisfied for the past couple of seasons and didn't care whether school kept or not. This year he's in shape and if some of the kids don't make good the Yankees will be right in the middle of the battle.

[illegible]

Our Mister McGraw doesn't let his ball club get that way at all. He establishes training rules, and he sees to it pretty well that they are observed. There's never a time during mere the players disobeyed. He promptly banished Hal Chase during the club's always trying, even in mattered on hand to do that little thing. It sets as a word to Dauss, and we doubt if any other club in baseball is more considerate of its players than the Giants. Which has a whole lot to do with the repeated success of the club.

The land cost in the neighborhood of $40,000 and the money was raised through a bond issue among the members.

Work on the nine holes which was started last Fall is advancing rapidly, and these holes should be ready for play not later than July.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. Forbes

Why is house coal so dear? Because the wages earned by miners in course of a year are very high?

No.

Because railway freight rates are excessively high?

No; that is only a minor factor.

Because of rank profiteering by coal mine owners and retail distributors?

Generally speaking, no.

Because of heavy rake-offs during the passage of coal from the pit to the house coal cellar?

Yes; to some extent.

Should the yearly earnings of coal miners be reduced?

No.

Should the rate of their pay be reduced?

A study of the facts would seem to suggest "yes."

* * *

How can the rate of pay be reduced without reducing the total yearly earnings of the miners?

By putting the whole industry on a more business like basis.

Who are responsible for the fact that soft coal miners worked only an average of a little more than three days each week during 1921?

First, the mine owners themselves, we ourselves, the consumers of coal.

Why are we in any way to blame?

Because most of us will not order and pay for our coal until the Fall months, thus influencing the mines to produce very little coal during the Spring and Summer months, when they have little outlet for it.

* * *

Why will we be entitled to regard the mine owners chiefly to blame if a disastrous strike occurs?

Because the running of the coal industry has been more bungled than the running of almost any other important industry in America.

The public's hatred of the "anthracite coal barons" did not spring up without cause. When the powerful interests controlling both the coal-carrying roads and the principal hard coal mines worked in cahoots without interference from the government, they reaped enormous fortunes, which they took from the pockets of the public, who were helpless. The leading coal miners, by their lack of business statesmanship, also failed to gain the good will of their work people. The country has been periodically thrown into convulsions by threatened or actual coal strikes, some of which have had most lamentable and catastrophic consequences. Any industry whose leaders miserably fail to secure fair work people cannot be regarded as having been wisely managed.

To whom can the public look for bringing about more satisfactory conditions and prices in the coal industry?

In the soft coal industry competition, production and prices have been haphazard. Soft coal has been cheaper than the very hard coal has been extremely dear. Over a long period of years profits from soft coal were made unsatisfactory. Why? Mainly because of unwise handling of the industry, which brought excessive production.

Moreover, this state of affairs led to a criminal amount of idleness throughout long periods of the year. In 1919 there were 113 lost days. In 1920 between 80 and 90, and last year only a few more than 138 lost days. Clearly, therefore, the miner had to insist upon a very high rate of pay when he was allowed to work, or he and his family would have starved.

The public, on the other hand, have suffered more through lack of competition than from excessive competition in the anthracite coal industry. Here, also, far too many workless days have been forced upon the miners in course of the year. So they have to insist upon a high rate of pay in order to bring their yearly earnings up to a living standard.

The responsibility for placing the entire coal industry upon a sounder basis for all concerned, consumers as well as workers, rests primarily upon those responsible for the management of the industry. Does it not look as if the coal leaders prove unable to remedy matters, they can depend upon it that the American people will not forever submit to periodical bloody strikes and to such price extortions as they have been submitting.

* * *

What is the first thing to be done at this time? The mine owners and their workers should at once address themselves most earnestly to devising a fair, mutually working arrangement which would permit prices to be lowered without forcing the miners to accept less pay during the course of a year than they could live on decently. In other words, the public should not be compelled to support miners in idleness one-third or one-half of the year. It will take greater business statesmanship to accomplish this than the leaders of the coal industry have exhibited in the past.

* * *

If they utterly fail to place the industry on a basis tolerable to factory to the public, and likewise to their workers, what will be the final upshot?

The politicians, at the behest of a clamorous public, will stand up and take a hand, with what consequences who can even hazard a guess?

MEXICAN PETROLEUM IN LATE DECLINE

Hill Railroads Recede Because of Dividend Reduction; Steels Only a Shade Lower

By W. H. ROSS
Financial Editor

The New York market closed weak, the general list near the bottom. Sentiment was bearish. This was partly because of the high call rate and a general belief in prospects of bonus legislation. The prospect of a great strike, with interference with business and industry also shadowed the market.

Trading was of less volume than for some time. Brokerage house advices to take profits proved of the free selling which characterized proceedings at times. Mexican Petroleum was a leader in the late decline, but recovered part of its loss and was down only a fraction at the finish.

The market opened with a heavy tone, and after a brief rally had something of a recovery during the first hour, it sagged off at the second, the low mark at mid-noon and more so in the afternoon when bullety pet-roleums advanced for a brief period. The day. Hill railroads excited the most interest at the outset, both Northern Pacific and Great Northern sagging. The first named was off 2¾, at 63, and the latter 1¾, at 75. The reduction of the Northern Pacific dividend rate had an unsettling influence on the group.

Issues to show the largest losses during the day included Bosch Magneto, American Locomotive, General Electric, Gulf States Steel, General Asphalt, Union Pacific, Punta Alegre, Mexican Petroleum, Peoples' Gas, Retail Stores, Famous Players, Beet Sugar, American Pacific and Standard Oil of N. J. They were down from one to two points.

But there were opening spots in the list. Pullman was up 2½ at its highest. Hocking Valley, Chesapeake & Ohio, Certainteed 3%, Wabash preferred A 1½, Ann Arbor preferred 2½, its common 1, Missouri Pacific well 2% and Western Union 1. The last named sold at its highest in five years. Rails were generally in strong rail, advancing ¾ to 2½, the latter in Pullman, Studebaker was active motors and up a fraction from the opening to the last hour.

Call money opened at 5 per cent, and climbed to 5½ per cent. The effect of mid-month payments and transfers is still being felt. Foreign exchange declined, marks establishing a new record low.

Traders Bearish as Money Rate Climbs.

New York, March 23.—It was next to impossible to work up any enthusiasm in today's stock market. Most of the traders were bearish throughout the session and those who did not have the courage to sell the market short showed a strong disposition to wait for the expected reaction before taking on new lines.

Commission houses have been much more conservative in their market views and reports, advising their customers to take profits wherever possible and to buy only on severe reactions.

The position of the money market today and yesterday, together with the announcement by Secretary Hughton and Europe, the announced intention of the coal strike on April 1 and the almost unanswered rise in the speculative issues for a period of months or more, paved the way for a reaction that has been somewhat overdue.

Mexican Pete and Pan-American were under fire. While the public have suffered from the Mexican Pete make a very creditable showing, it is apprehended that the present rate of oil production cannot be maintained and that the stock is at present considerably inflated.

Retail Stores also felt the weight of bear hammering. F. W. Stock failed to regain any position and 91 in spite of the bullish statements about the present status of the steel industry.

Liberty Bonds Are Active in New York

New York, March 23.—The bond market today was active, especially with Liberty bonds, foreign issues and public utilities. The tendency was irregular for the first hour, but it became firmer as the day progressed.

Trading was of less volume than for some time. Brokerage house advices to take profits proved of the free selling which characterized proceedings at times. Mexican Petroleum was a leader in the late decline, but recovered part of its loss and was down only a fraction at the finish.

WEST SHOWING STEADY GAIN IN BUSINESS

Merchants Cautious, but Optimism Is General, Says Evans

By C. B. EVANS.

Chicago, March 23.—The process of sewing up the rents in the Western trousers is going on satisfactorily. In addition to the improved outlook of agriculture we have in this change the golden thread of cheaper money and a degree of nervous relaxation which prepares the system for the advent of courage and a general forward movement.

The general tax question is still mix-ing in disagreeably, but the farmer-legislator will be dealt with kindly by the law and the interpretations thereof than any other class of people, while the rest of us should not begrudge.

Among the evidences of improvement are the advanced prices of International Harvester stock, which sold 23½ points above the low of last year, and of Pullman, which at 123½ was 34¼ up. Then one looks across the Pacific and sees copper selling at the lowest point ever recorded.

MARGIN IS THIN.

But experienced business men who have studied the subject say that the margin between the present degree of prosperity and unfortunate happiness is very thin and that another material decline in grain would cause nothing short of a panic in farming throughout the West are buying cautiously in view of the situation in the local credits to retailers much less freely than in ordinary times.

As everywhere in this country, the market for cotton goods is weak and the outlook for prices not unfavorable to holders. It is seen that an adjustment in that part of the trade is necessary before anything like stability shall enter the trade.

Woolens and worsteds furnish a conspicuous failure to bolster the Fall trade are going well, in the case of some Eastern companies up to capacity production. Evidently the extreme cheapness of wool for a time prevented subscription to price that has made a strong appeal to persons of ordinary means, for the reason that it is great advantage over cotton in the matter of price. This has changed with the multitude of buyers toward the two classes of fabrics.

GREAT PROFITS MADE.

But many of the leading manufacturers of woolen goods can afford to be easy with buyers on account of the great profits they are making in the interval of the last years ago and values today. Millions of pounds of dirt-cheap wool were bought in the early part of 1920, and the profit on that alone in the aggregate runs into the gains through manufacture.

The savings of the wise among the farmers are before anything. A Chicago banker declares that he has never seen such a disposition. He referred particularly to the population of this city, the poorer portion of which are putting away in the country tributary to Chicago. He says that the Winter is extremely small compared with that of former years. In part, the reason is that there has been unreasonable weather in that State, but mainly it is a question of saving money.

The effort to rebuild is manifest everywhere. The process is a slow one at the start with many a backward slip, but there is no question as to which way the people are facing.

GRAIN OUTLOOK GOOD.

As for the grain crops, we may have considerable confidence. The statistics that exist to date are fairly favorable. It is three months to the arrival of 1922 wheat in the markets and the Winter crop will afford promise of great abundance if the first quarter of the year. The Spring wheat yield is of course a gamble at this time.

The country has entered the groves of 1922, leaving behind a fire blasted forest and the smell of the ashes. We have yet to walk it, but it is green and pleasant where we are now and the evidence manifests optimism and the expectation o a much better state of affairs than we have seen of late. The program is not all bad in view of what we have gone through in the last two years.

FINAL CHANCE TO JOIN BIG TITLES TEST

New Contestants May Not Enter After Close of Present Week

Last call for those who desire to enter the Boston American's $5,000 famous Titles Picture Test.

This opportunity passes forever with the close of the present week.

Every day for sixty days this newspaper will print a test drawing in manner like unto that which you see on this page and will ask its readers to say what is the correct title of the picture.

This is the twentieth day of the test. After Drawing No. 60 has been printed each contestant will send in a complete set of sixty pictures (with the titles written on the coupon below) and the Boston American will pay 219 awards in cash to those who have sent in the largest number of correct titles.

LIST OF AWARDS.

These are the awards:

First Award	$1,000
Second Award	750
Third Award	500
Fourth Award	400
Fifth Award	300
Sixth Award	200
Seventh Award	150
Eighth Award	100
Ninth Award	50
100 Awards of $10 Each	1,000
$10 Awards of $5 Each	250
Total	$5,000

If you have not entered the Test already you may begin with today's picture. Registration or enrolment is not required, but if you are beginning today you will need the Back Pictures. How are you to get them? Easy enough!

FOLLOW THE TEST.

Send a stamped and self-addressed envelope to the Title Test Editor, No. 80 Summer Street, Boston (8), Mass. Tell him you have begun the Test with Drawing No. —— and want the other pictures.

Your wants will be supplied immediately. After that, all you will need to do is follow the Famous Titles Test from day to day as they appear in the columns of the Boston American.

Do not hesitate because you can't put it off. If you wait a day or two, it then may be impossible to give you the assistance you desire. Act now! For the price of an envelope, a stamp and a few words you can have what you want.

The Titles Tests are not beyond your ability. If you have the average amount of intelligence and possess the average amount of general information you know words and their meanings and if you are willing to undertake a little study and inquiry when, from time to time, the more difficult problems are placed before you.

NONE ON SUNDAYS.

Every problem in the Test is NOT an easy one. There wouldn't be much test or contest in the entertainment if every participant found it easy to write the sixty Correct Titles.

That is not the intention. The Test should be of his level best, deceive and mislead you, by fair and legitimate methods, but should not want you to get his 60 titles right. His position is unique in that he deserves no such breath that the thing can be done but will not be done. What do you know about that?

There will be one Test Drawing every week-day. None on Sunday.

Famous Titles Test Drawing No. 21 will be printed tomorrow.

Rules of the Titles Test

The Boston American Famous Titles Test is a test of skill and inducement soon to all readers of the Boston American, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two small and nineteen cash awards will be given to this newspaper to its readers supplying the correct titles to the sixty numbered pictures to be published in the Boston American.

Employes of the Boston American and their families are absolutely barred from competing in the Test.

All of the twenty-one sixty pictures, each representing a famous title, to be printed in the Boston American, will be published in the first picture on Wednesday, March 1, 1922.

Participating in any other contest which has been or may be announced in this paper will not bar you from entering this test.

Each set of sixty titles must be written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American, or on a page of some book form of itself, accompanied by the picture coupon. Each set must contain one and only one TITLE to each picture, and no picture should have more than one title written against it. Not more than one award shall be given in any one family.

Each set of sixty titles must be written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American, or on a page of some book form of itself, accompanied by the picture coupon. Each set must contain one and only one TITLE to each picture, and no picture should have more than one title written against it. Not more than one award shall be given in any one family.

Do not send your titles in "list" form, that is, do not write title under one another on a piece of paper.

Duplicate sets of the complete sets of correct titles will be given to the person submitting the nearest correct solutions, the weight to be said solutions.

In case of a tie awards will be made on the basis of neatness, correctness and accuracy, but if the tie cannot be decided in this way duplicate awards will be given to those tying.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their titles before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP your titles from day to day and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and send them in all together at one time.

Time will not be a factor in making the awards. The first titles sent in after the Test closes will stand no better than the last submitted.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American title headquarters, at No. 80 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass., within the specified time limit which will be announced later.

All envelopes or packages containing titles must be addressed plainly as follows: "Famous Titles Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass." Do not write to the Boston American office.

All contestants may address their inquiries to the Famous Titles Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass. Questions will be answered as far as possible through the columns of the Boston American, but the Famous Titles Editor solely reserves their absolute exclusive and self-addressed envelopes.

REVENUE FALLS WAY BELOW LAST YEAR

More Than 100 Million Under Estimate, Secretary Mellen Announces

Washington, March 23.—Government revenues for the fiscal year 1923 will show a shortage of over $100,000,000, Secretary Mellon declared made in the budget to Congress because of business depression last year, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon announced today.

Mellon said March 15 income tax payments would fall below $480,000,000. His previous estimate was $460,000,000. The large decline in receipts will alter the funding program of the Treasury, he said, and necessitate larger borrowing by the government to help pay running expenses.

The boy's body was swept from the grasp of rescuers in the current of the stream and is believed to have made its way to the Merrimack River.

MOVIE WORLD NEWS AND GOSSIP

Billie Dove So Fond of Boston She Makes a Second Visit

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

BILLIE DOVE liked Boston so much during her visit here last week with the Lasky horde and celebrities that she decided on a return trip. She is back in town from a week making appearances at the Boston and Beacon Theatres in connection with the showing of "Beyond the Rainbow," in which she is one of the sixteen headliners.

Meeting Miss Dove on the street one would not take her for an actress. There is nothing studied about her attitude. She does not suggest—as many, I find, so—that she thinks people are all watching her or, if they are not, should be. She is quiet, reserved and entirely unaffected. As for her appearance, see her on the screen. She is quite the same off, dressing quietly in dark colors, with a simple black hat and a sealskin cloak with a fur collar.

She is not a temperamental player. Acting, with her is not so much art as it is business. She wants to do the best she can in acting because always wants to be at the top of one's profession, not because she "feels an inner flame burning within to display her genius"! There are some, even many, of the latter type. I've found them, but so far thankful for the Billie Doves.

"FOUR HORSEMEN" HAS DIFFICULTIES

THE Metro-Rex Ingram success, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," is being shown in Paris. The statement as it stands sounds so simple that it seems incredible that there is such a furor uproar over the affair that Premier Poincare, himself, had to step in and quell the fuss.

The Vaudeville, a prominent Parisian theatre, booked the film for an eight weeks' engagement, and then the trouble started. The leader of Action Francaise objected. They were incensed that a theatre like the Vaudeville could go so low as to exhibit a film that had proved, however, that the rub was that the author of the piece was Spanish.

The German embassy protested next, giving as their reason that the picture would bring up memories of the war that could best be left pending. They feared that the showing of the film would bring up serious diplomatic consequences!

That settled it for Poincare. With his usual promptness and Napoleonic manner he took up the question, placated the society of which he is an important member, overruled the German objections, and authorized the film shown as it stood, uncut by censor boards.

EMERSON AND LOOS SAIL.

THAT famous movie pair, John Emerson and his wife, Anita Loos, left New York yesterday on the Aquitania for a few months trip abroad, when they will make a close study of motion picture production as carried on by the leading producers of England, France, Germany and Italy. Mr. Emerson will by stress on gathering material to use in his fight to have a tariff put on films imported into this country.

Mr. Emerson feels that something must be done about the importation of foreign films, for the American industry has been unfavorably affected by the importation of foreign produced pictures made abroad. He declares that it is absolutely necessary that we have a tax on all importations of this sort.

MAYO MAY SIGN.

TODAY'S little rumor along film row is that Frank Mayo will become a star of Universal as soon as his contract with Universal expires. Nothing definite could be learned about the matter, but it is probable that there is much truth in the rumor. In the matter, for there has been a haziness about Mayo's future plans. At present he is on the Universal City working on one of his last films for Laemmle's company.

NEILAN'S NEXT.

MARSHALL NEILAN'S next picture production, "Tol'able First" is so nearly ready for release that he is willing that the cast of players should be announced. Neilan, too, is going in for what might be termed an "all star" cast. Richard Dix, who scored so heavily in "The Glorious Fool"; Claire Windsor, one of the featured players of "Grand Larceny"; Claude Gillingwater, who put much toward the success of "My Boy"; "Little Lord Fauntleroy"; Raymond Griffith and Georgie Seigman have the leading roles.

They are supported by such shining lights as Leo White, Sharon Day, Theodore von Eltz, Fred Kelsey, Helen Lynch, Warner Brower, Jack Duffy and William Irving.

"OLIVER TWIST" A FACT.

JACKIE COOGAN will make "Oliver Twist" after all. All plans are set and the company is preparing for a trip abroad, where the film will be made. Lon Chaney has been chosen for the role of Fagin, which gives him one more opportunity to give us a remarkable character portrayal.

Negotiations are under way to have Noah Beery for the part of Bill Sykes, but nothing has been settled as far as that is concerned.

SAYS AUSTRALIA HOPES FOR PACT WITH U. S.

White Races of Pacific Should Band Together, Parliament Member Declares

(By International News Service.)

Washington, March 23.—A trade alliance with the United States to insure the commercial supremacy of the white race in the Pacific is the hope of Australia, Randolph Bedford, of the Australian Parliament declared in the International News Service today. Bedford declares the people of Australia universally condemned the Anglo-Japanese alliance and "dreaded any new alliance" in volving a yellow race.

"The Anglo-Japanese alliance," said Bedford, "was looked upon as a blow to the prestige of the white man in the Pacific.

It was considered as in alliance with an enemy nation, proven so by impudence and insults. It was made originally to protect India not Australia."

Bedford, who is here to open markets for Australia coal, declared Australia much desired a reciprocal trade agreement with America.

"It would be a landing of the white races in the Pacific against the yellow races," the Australian added. "Such an alliance must come some day. It will mean a commercial alliance. Its future can be left to the imagination."

Japanese competence is undesired in Australia, Bedford said.

"Australians feel that each shilling sent to Japan means one more cartridge that some day may be used against them," he continued. "They desire American goods in preference to all other goods, even British made. At present a preferential tariff is given British goods, but under a reciprocal arrangement this would easily be extended to American goods."

An America's foothold is now being established, Bedford declared, through the development of Australian oil fields by American plutocrats.

Grab the Big Stick, People

And Begin to Use It Now on Congress Against the Un-American Four-Power Treaty

In many ways this Four-Power Treaty is worse than Wilson's Four-Power Treaty.

In no ways is it any better.

The American Senate rejected Wilson's Four-Power Treaty, and the American people indorsed the Senate's action by giving one of its members who voted right seven millions plurality in the next election.

No honest and clear-thinking mind can find honest explanation of the course of those Senators who opposed Wilson's Four-Power Treaty and who now support Hughes' Four-Power Treaty.

Both are as like as twin peas in the same pod.

Both are good or bad.

The man who was against the League of Nations, as the Wilson Four-Power Treaty was falsely called, and who supports the Four-Power Treaty of Hughes is either a dishonest politician, afraid to stand up against the power of the White House and the dictation of the money kings, or else he is a feeblewit, incapable of thinking straight and disgracefully ignorant of the facts of the present and the inevitables of the future.

Wilson's ideas, as far as he was capable of having ideas instead of caprices and vanities, were to unite the victors in the war in a permanent alliance of four great powers, with Italy as a disregarded associate, which alliance was to dominate the world and to aid each other in keeping possession of the peoples and islands each had subjugated and stolen.

It was a bigger idea than that of Hughes, because it proposed to embrace the earth in its decrees and to make the whole world safe for British imperialism, French militarism, Japanese despotism and American financialism. With each of these safely entrenched behind the armies and navies and riches of England, France, Japan and the United States, the smaller peoples and the vanquished nations could take what was handed to them on the points of bayonets and be thankful it was not worse.

Now, the dishonest camouflage of this alliance between one despotic autocracy, one pretended democracy, one insatiable land-grabbing imperialism and one presumably democratic republic was that it was formed to substitute the Rule of Right for the Rule of Might and to make every people, great or small, secure in its natural right to its lands and to government by its own consent.

The whole world now knows that this was a false pretense—a gigantic lie.

And so it will be with this Hughes treaty, which is purely an alliance to make British imperialism and Japanese militarism safe in the possession of the territories and goods they have stolen from their rightful owners in China, India, Korea, Formosa, Manchuria, Siberia and the islands of the Pacific Sea—and which, just as dishonestly as was the Wilson treaty, is camouflaged under the false pretense of abolishing armaments, saving the expense of armies and navies, and instituting permanent peace on the waters and coasts of the Western ocean, and doing justice to the weaker peoples trading over those waters or living on those coasts.

That is a lie. No other word fits its crass and insolent falseness.

The cunning and unscrupulous Englishman who came over here to flatter and bamboozle Hughes and his associates would not lift a finger to do justice to a weak people or to institute peace in any part of the world any longer than it took England to get her breath, digest her prey and look around for new spoils to be gained by diplomacy and war.

Mr. Balfour has personally inspired and helped to conduct fifteen wars during his political lifetime. He has had republican Boers and rebellious Irish men and women shot down with the same callousness with which he viewed Hindoos and Egyptians and Chinese massacred, French Canadians decimated and German and Austrian and Russian women and children starved to death by the millions.

We do not know which is worse—the cowardly submission to the plots and half-veiled threats of these combined white and yellow imperialisms or the future dangers which are invited by our acceptance of our natural and inevitable enemies that we sink our navy and strip our ocean outposts of their guns.

If Wilson's treaty was idealism—plus vanity—gone foolish, this is pacifism—plus cowardice—gone absolutely idiotic.

We warned Mr. Wilson and his rubber-stamps in the Senate that they would wreck the Democratic party on the rocks of public indignation if they persisted in toadying to British influences and in yielding the rightful world supremacy of the republic to the wiles of foreign diplomacy. November, 1920, justified and emphasized the truth of that warning.

And we now warn President Harding and his obedient machinists in the Senate that if they persist in their course of exalting the British Union Jack and the Japanese Rising Sun banner above the battle-flags and the merchant marine flags and the outpost flags of America, they can nominate themselves for office again with the certainty that not one of them will get enough American votes at the polls to wad a shotgun.

It is time for plain-speaking. You folks who put this administration in power and these administration Senators in office are being double-crossed.

You are being sold out.

You are being handed over to the same foreign political influences and same domestic financial interests to whom Woodrow Wilson and his fellow rubber-stamps tried to hand you over.

Rouse yourselves!

Speak to these unfaithful servants of yours.

Write to them.

Telegraph to them.

Hold mass meetings everywhere.

Show them that you are exactly of the same mind toward foreign alliances that you were in 1920.

Grab the Big Stick!

Then use it.

Honesty Is the Best Policy

The Boston American Gives Superintendent of Police Crowley Some Advice About Making Denials

The Boston Post published a story Tuesday morning that officials of the Boston Police Department had alleged that Dr. Magrath, Medical Examiner of Suffolk County, had failed to report to the proper authorities the unnatural death of the Clark girl within thirty-six hours.

The editor of the Boston American requested two of our reporters Mr. Francis C. McLean, and Mr. Harry A. Benwell, to interview Superintendent Crowley with the purpose of learning whether the facts had been correctly reported by the Boston Post. These two gentlemen, on their way to see Superintendent Crowley, met him at Scollay Square, and talked with him on this matter for twenty minutes or more, taking down his statement, which was published in the Boston American yesterday morning. In that statement Superindendent Crowley characterized the death of the Clark girl as a murder, not once, but several times, and complained that if Dr. Magrath had promptly reported what he knew to the proper authorities, Larsen would have been arrested.

When Superintendent Crowley saw the published interview, for reasons that have not been explained, he proceeded to repudiate it—to deny that he had given it. Whether or not Superintendent Crowley feared a clash with Dr. Magrath, we do not know, nor have we the slightest inkling of any possible reason that might have moved him to his extraordinary denial of an interview which he gave to two men, who have taken oath, published in another column of this paper, that the story published in the American was Crowley's statement as he gave it to them.

If Superintendent Crowley does fear a quarrel with Dr. Magrath the American certainly fears a quarrel with neither of them, and Superintendent Crowley will learn before he is a great deal older that when he gives an interview to the Boston American, and then regrets it, the way out of his difficulty is not by denying it. This newspaper is not in the habit of taking the buck lying down; nor do we thank gentlemen who try to pass it to us.

Unless we are greatly mistaken, we shall show Mr. Crowley at no great distance that in the matter of admitting and denying embarrassing statements in the Boston American, he will find that honesty is the best policy ALL THE TIME.

Magrath Should Explain

District Attorney O'Brien More Competent to Pass on Evidence Than Medical Examiner

Medical Examiner Magrath says that the death of the Clark girl was by suicide. How he knows, except by evidence which the police are more competent to gather and the district attorney is more competent to interpret in the eye of the law, no one but Magrath himself, with his idiosyncrasies, can tell.

However, we have a district attorney who has neither friends nor personal peculiarities to serve, and who knows his business. District Attorney O'Brien says that he differs from Dr. Magrath on the interpretation of the law. He also says that "if there is anything in the report of Dr. Magrath which appears to clear up a MYSTERY or a matter of CONTROVERSY, I certainly shall make it public."

That is the way an intelligent public servant should talk. Medical examiners are neither district attorneys nor policemen. As a physician, all Dr. Magrath could say is that the woman died of unnatural causes by poison. Whether it was self-administered voluntarily, or whether it was administered to her without her knowledge, or whether she took it voluntarily, but was aided and abetted or acted under the inducement of somebody, are matters of evidence which the police are a thousand times more competent to gather than a medical examiner, and which the district attorney alone has the authority to interpret.

The People Ought to Rule

But They Don't. If They did, the Bonus Would Have Been Paid Long Ago. Reason No. 5

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

We call this a republic, it is managed on the assumption that the majority rule. If that assumption were exactly correct the soldiers would not still be waiting for their bonus, wondering what latest excuse will be invented to deprive them of it. As his fifth reason for giving to the soldiers the bonus to which they have a right, W. R. Hearst, in his analysis of the bonus situation, gives this:

> FIFTH, because the will of the people of the United States should be the guiding principle in legislation, and in nearly every State where the question of a soldier bonus has come before the people, in a referendum, the people have voted by large majorities in favor of the soldier bonus.
> W. R. HEARST.

Of course the people want a bonus for the soldiers, for the soldiers ARE THE PEOPLE. They represented every hamlet, almost every house. Their friends and families, those with whom they lived, KNOW the sacrifices that the government demanded of them and that were cheerfully made.

These millions of men represent tens of millions that know how they have been treated, what sacrifice it meant to go into the army, to give up work, to abandon the prospect of employment in boom times and then come back to look for work again, with the boom exploded and the factories closed.

Fortunately, the people that demand the bonus for the soldiers and know they ought to have it will have a chance to vote for Congressmen next Fall.

If the men are swindled out of their bonus, the Republican party will hear of it at that coming election.

Work for Five-Cent Fare

Boston Should Have What Eastern Railway Public Trustees Are Giving Their Customers

The public trustees, operating in behalf of the public the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company, announce that in Salem, Brockton, Lawrence and Lynn they are making another reduction in fare. In Lawrence the fare will be 5½ cents. In Lynn the fare will be practically 5 cents and in Salem it will be 5½ cents. In Brockton it will be 5½ cents.

Of course, the one-man car cannot, under the conditions, help the street railway in Boston as it has helped the other publicly operated street railway. But we must work toward a 5-cent fare in Boston and we can get it with the help of legislation.

Let Mayor Curley keep pounding on this subject and he will have the people of Boston behind him.

Somebody's Birthday

Copyright, 1922, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.

IF born today you should have above all the other interests of an unusually versatile character, a distinct love for all things mechanical or scientific. You like things that work, that you can see and touch and feel.

You should seek to concentrate your time on some work which enlists your active enthusiasm, as you will find yourself capable of double the zeal you might counterfeit in an uninteresting occupation.

Today is one of good outlook. New ideas developed will terminate successfully and those who have been ailing will begin from now on to enjoy better health.

A child born today has many obstacles ahead of it, due to its desire to do good for others—many times the motive being misunderstood. This will be true from early childhood. So parents should guard them accordingly.

THE BISHOP'S ERROR

The bishop was very tired. There were an unprecedented number of candidates for confirmation and the church grew hotter and hotter. The bishop felt his eyes getting heavier and heavier. At last a ballhooded man knelt before him. The bishop dropped into a half doze just as his hands touched the shining dome. And this is what a horrified congregation heard him drowsily utter: "I declare this stove to be well and truly laid."

Little Children Rule World

By Dr. Charles Fleischer.

CHILDREN of a larger growth—that is all that most of us are!

The loss to mankind is incalculably vast, because the "promissory note" which each new-born child represents, goes to protest long before their membership reaches maturity.

Vital statistics, borne out by sad experience, indicate the failure of most persons to attain a mental development beyond that which would be normal to a sixteen-year-old person!

Let not the reader too readily take himself or herself out of the class of the average, unless you can prove that your growth in intellect and spirit has been continuous, that you are always open-minded and eager-souled, one of those relatively rare individuals who is self-doomed to everlasting growing pains.

Pathetic Reason

The rest are the despair of all who dream dreams for the race, all workers for social progress, all who regard society and social machinery as means for the embodiment and illustration of feasible ideals.

And, therefore—because most adults are like Kipling's "Vampire," in that they never know why and never can understand—always we postpone the progress, dependent upon the realization of our visions, to the next generation.

For this pathetic reason, the children must remain the hope of the race.

However, there is a happier sense in which we adults are only children of a larger growth. Readers of this column have seen more than one reference to Barrie's whimsical creation, the winsome little Peter Pan, who, at the ripe age of one day, ran away to Never Never Land, because he refused to stay at home and grow up.

He is a supreme favorite of the present writer, because Peter Pan symbolizes Youth, Eternal Youth, the invincible, optimistic spirit of mankind that dares to do, and to dream even beyond the deed.

Happy the men and women who have joined the Peter-Pantheists, the great band of those who will always be, in best sense, but children of a larger growth; always eager, sensitive, responsive; open-eyed, "seeing things;" open-eared, hearing "voices;" open-minded, learning more; open-souled, perceiving more truth; open-hearted, loving more.

In such childlike adults, as in the littler children, is the actual hope of the race!

Because the overwhelming majority of "grownup" human beings are not really grown up and because, therefore, the spiritual gains of the generations are necessarily restricted, it behooves us to make the most of our children and their education.

In addition to their being well-born (i. e., of healthy, intelligent and responsible parents) and favorably environed (at home, in school, on the streets, in theatre and in church)—society owes it to them and to itself that the children be so fostered and educated that their intellectual development shall never cease.

This is the 100 per cent. need and demand. We shall do well to approximate that increasingly with each generation; so that, through its childhood, the race may, with accelerating speed, overtake its ideals.

Fortunately, the whole story of the human species serves as the basis for such an expectation. What primarily distinguishes our kind from all other living beings, considered biologically, is the long period of infancy peculiar to our race.

That means that the human infant is immeasurably longer under parental protection, and specifically under maternal care, than the young of any other species.

This fact underlies the deathless glory of human motherhood.

Superficial Symptom

Do not be deceived by the seeming precociousness of the children and the youth of our generation. This is only a superficial symptom, not to be compared for significance with the increasing length of the period of relative irresponsibility and of preparation for the individually responsible life.

The whole future of humanity—or, rather, the rest of human progress—depends upon the wiser and wiser use of the time of youth as the means of efficient preparedness for the business of constructive and creative living.

This is addressed to intelligent parenthood, to devoted teachers in school and in church, and to the youth themselves, all being jointly charged with the function of giving more meaning to the succeeding generations.

Our concern for the future of humanity must duly make us concentrate upon the children and their education most of our wealth, our wisdom and our practical ideality.

So the time will come when the children of that generation will deserve the title which Jesus gave to the spiritually successful: Children of the Light.

"Bird of Evil Omen"

BERLIN, March 23.—The "Bird of Evil Omen" has again appeared in Germany. Superstitious souls who feed their minds on signs and portents are much perturbed by the appearance of this bird, which in years past has always proven a harbinger of disaster.

The unwelcome guest is the "wax-wing," a bird indigenous to the fir birch forests north of the Arctic Circle.

Nature has provided it with a luxuriant coat of feathers, and it is never known to leave its native haunts unless driven south by uncommonly heavy snows. It has now appeared in large numbers in the lowlands bordering on the Baltic, where it is known to the peasants by various names, such as the "bird of death," the "war bird" or the "bird of plague."

This popular superstition is founded upon the fact that whenever the bird has migrated south in large numbers Germany has been overtaken by some stupendous calamity during the following year.

AS refreshing to overwrought city nerves as the fragrance of the pine and balsam is the unpretentious story of "Maria Chapdelaine" by Louis Hemon. All th. usual complications of love affairs, tangled and twisted until you can scarcely remember whose lover is who, are happily missing.

All the charm of the book, which you can read in an hour, lies in simplicity of story and lovely descriptions of the Canadian woods. There is a spell about those immense solitudes that is more compelling than the lure of most places, and Louis Hemon has woven that spell on paper very successfully.

Mari. Chapdelaine is a French-Canadian girl whose thoughts are almost childlike in their unquestioning belief of everything and everybody. She is a type that is extinct in the cities, but it is delightful to know that she still flourishes in the frozen fastnesses of the Canadian woods.

Because it is so unpretentious, so different, and, most of all, so charming, we believe that you will enjoy this little story as much as we did.
